

BRILLIANT WEDDING FOR JESSIE WILSON AND FRANCIS SAYRE

SIMPLICITY WITH DIGNITY GIVES DEMOCRATIC TINGE TO CER-EMONY IN EAST ROOM OF
WHITE HOUSE.

Presence of Close Friends and Relatives Preserves Home Atmos-

Many Officials.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, November 25.—Simplicity with dignity—the same ideal which President Wilson has cherished for his administration since its inauguration—was the predominant note in the arrangements for the marriage today of Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of President and Mrs. Wilson, and Francis Sayre.

During the 113 years that have elapsed since the White House was built, twelve weddings have taken place there and it thus to the lot of Miss Wilson to be the thirteenth. A coincidence all the more remarkable because the President often has told his friends that his life as a harbinger of good luck. Curiously enough the bride and groom were married in the East Room of the White House.

The ceremony was solemnized in the historic East Room, majestically decorated in masses of flowers for the occasion, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, but long before that hour the White House grounds assumed a holiday appearance. The passing of automobiles and carriages to and from the north portico told the gathering of crowds outside that the bride party—the ushers and attendant maids—had arrived and that all was in readiness for the unusual event—the giving in marriage of a daughter of the President of the United States.

Brilliant by Necessity.
Notwithstanding its official brilliancy, there was a distinct touch of homeliness in the day's affair. The Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Princeton, N. J., where Miss Wilson long taught a Sunday Bible class, and where the Wilson family worshipped for a score of years, had been selected as the officiating clergyman. The maid of honor was the eldest daughter of the President, Miss Margaret Wilson. The bridesmaids were the bride's younger sisters, Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, and Miss Mary G. White, of Baltimore; Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott, of Princeton; and Miss Marjorie Brown, of Atlanta, the last a relative, and the others chums of girlhood.

The best man was Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, with whom Sayre spent many months ministering to the sick and needy on the rock-bound Labrador Coast. The ushers were the groom's college mates—Benjamin B. Barton, of New York; Dr. De Witt Scoville Clark, Jr., of Salem, Mass.; Dr. Gilbert Horrox, of Montclair, N. J., and Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., a son of the Justice of the Supreme Court.

The bride and groom—both blonde and of about the same height, she known as the White House beauty because of her classic Grecian features, and he, a tall, thin young man athletic in appearance with sharp features and a fair complexion—were busily occupied during the forenoon of the day mingling in the bride party, their relatives and house guests to whom alone the White House was accessible before the wedding hour.

Both Settlement Workers.
The two young people who have lived the hardships of the poverty settlements in big cities and who have acquired into life's social and economic problems first hand, would have preferred a quiet wedding, limited to the family circle and close friends—such as it might have been had not the parents of the bride been elevated to the foremost social position in the gift of the nation. Reluctantly was it made an official affair. The diplomatic corps, it was realized, had never been omitted on any important social occasion at the White House, nor had the members of the Cabinet and the Supreme Court. To Washington society today's was the supreme event of the season, yet the guests were hardly drawn from official life but from the last circle of friends of the two families throughout the land.

There were but four hundred invitations issued—500 less than at the Roosevelt wedding seven years ago—but the Wilsons are newcomers in the White House. Whereas the Roosevelt administration was then five years old and officials and their wives had a greater opportunity to establish intimate relations at the White House.

High Officials Present.
Members of the Cabinet and their wives and families as well as the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States and their families, the Ambassadors and Ministers, representing kings and emperors throughout the civilized world, the Vice President, and Mrs. Marshall, the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Champ Clark, Senator Kern and Representative Oscar Underwood, the Democratic leaders, and Senator Gillingham and Representative Mann, the minority leaders of Congress, and their wives—these were the persons invited because of their official position, though among them were many close friends of the Wilson family.

Senators and Members of the House generally were not invited. If they had been, the East Room could not have held them. It was the same arrangement as was carried out at the Roosevelt wedding, in fact the preparations, decorations and general scheme of the day's program were along somewhat the same general lines.

As at the Roosevelt wedding, the diplomatic corps decided not to appear in uniform, but none the less it was expected that the assemblage would be a brilliant one. Though the men were to wear the conventional tuxedo, the women were to wear the conventional gown and toilettes have been planned with minute care by the feminine guests for the ceremony of an hour.

The program had been mapped out to the last detail at the White House, each part of it with the exactness characteristic of functions at the Executive Mansion.

Grandeur in Decorations.
High officials and relatives entered at the north front, but the guests generally were to come in at the east entrance through the glass conservatory decorated with ferns and palms and reaching through the windows the south grounds with the fountain and Italian pools, the hedges and shrubbery—the exquisite gardening of years.

From the conservatory to the main staircase leading up to the East Room, where daily hundreds of tourists are permitted to promenade, where the busts of celebrities and the tea chests and relics of traditional history are gathered—here was a staff of ushers to assist the guests with their wraps.

The East Room as it was prepared for the wedding was a picture of grandeur. The three crystal chandeliers with their pseudo-candle lights were to be half-illuminated, spreading a dim but suffused light over the gold-trimmed walls with their cream-colored pilasters, their huge vases and mantels of colored marble. The walls of the East Room were covered with tapestries, the arabesque ceiling being a dim but suffused light over the gold-trimmed walls with their cream-colored pilasters, their huge vases and mantels of colored marble. At exactly half past four o'clock, the President and Mrs. Wilson descended the main staircase from the family apartment to a place just in front of the Dining Room where the bride procession was formed. Mrs. Wilson and the members of the two families were to be escorted through the parlors to the southern end of the East Room and finally to a place just in front of the Dining Room where the bride procession was formed.

the bride up the low steps to the broad dais where the entire bridal party stood, the President and Mrs. Wilson standing at the base of the platform.
Reception in Blue Room.
The Rev. Mr. Beach read the wedding service from the Book of Common Prayer and immediately after the ceremony, the bride party proceeded to the Blue Room to receive the guests, with the President and Mrs. Wilson standing with the bride and groom.

Then the bride party entered the private dining room, where the table with its big cake was decorated with pink roses.
Refreshments for the guests were served in the State Dining Room. This room is decorated by silver chandeliers and eight silver electric chandeliers. It was furnished with chairs of mahogany, upholstered in dark green tapestry. Three large mahogany console tables with large carved eagles for supports were used for serving.

The Blue Room, the scene of the reception after the wedding, is historic for the many events that have taken place in it, chief among which was the wedding of President Cleveland. Except for decorations here and there, the room is little changed since then. There is a mantle of pure white marble in the center of the room, supported by two columns of white marble with bronze tips and eagles. The wall covering is in white enamel, the wall covering is of heavy, corded blue silk, on which is embroidered at the top and bottom the Grecian fret. The curtain hangings are of the same material as the wall coverings and embroidered with stars. The curtain poles are surmounted by gilt eagles and the Grecian fret appears also in the gold and gold-embroidered material. Blind doors have been cut in the walls near the southern end of the room and at reception guests pass through the three colored parlors.

Through the corridors, with the pictures of Presidents and their wives the wedding guests promenaded after the reception while the Marine Band rendered selections, and by 6 o'clock the bride and groom, escorted to be speeding away on their honeymoon. Whether they will go by automobile or train is a secret. They intend to travel for about a month, getting into their new home at Williams-town, Mass., early in January.

Executive Avenue between the White House and the Treasury Department was jammed with the cars and automobiles of the guests, gathered. Lines of police had been arranged for the occasion, being stationed along the east terraces and at the gates to move traffic smoothly.

Indian summer weather ushered the wedding day of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson and Francis Sayre. There was a distinct touch of holiday atmosphere everywhere. The interior of the White House, a home before, now everything was quiet and in readiness for the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock.

At the executive offices some of the wedding guests came early to pay their respects to President Wilson. Col. B. M. House of New York, an intimate friend, Cleveland H. Dodge, a Princeton classmate of the president, and John A. Wilson, a cousin, were among the first to arrive. The president had but one business engagement, a cabinet meeting.

Some of the bride party at the White House were entertained at luncheon by Associate Justice La. Mar La. Mar, it was the last of the series of reciprocal functions.

The president and Mrs. Wilson had some of their relatives and friends at luncheon.
Guests from Princeton.
Mrs. Wilson visited the executive offices with guests, showed them the president's office and the cabinet room and walked through the south grounds. Charles W. McAlpin, secretary of Princeton university, Andrew C. Imbrie, Edward Howe, Professors Osgood and Barrett, and a score of the time students of Princeton were early callers. Mr. Sayre and his best man, Dr. Grenfell, took long walks in the morning, and were at the White House for luncheon.

Miss Mary Family, the nine year old daughter of Secretary and Mrs. Tamm, was to be the youngest guest at the wedding. Some of the cabinet children have been invited. It became known today that the wedding couple will spend the greater part of their honeymoon abroad. It is thought they will sail within a week, though the time of their departure and their destination is being kept secret.

WILSON'S DAUGHTER IS THE THIRTEENTH WHITE HOUSE BRIDE

Mystic Thirteen Plays Prominent Part in Today's Wedding—List of Previous Nuptials.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 25.—The mystic number of 13—to some an evil superstition, but to President Wilson an omen of good luck—played a prominent part in today's wedding at the White House. Not by design, but by a curious coincidence the bride party numbered exactly twelve, so that when the ushers and attendant maids stood with the bride and groom in front of the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, of Princeton, N. J., there were just thirteen on the raised platform banked with flowers in the historic East Room.

Both the names "Jessie W. Wilson" and "Francis B. Sayre" contain exactly thirteen letters each, as does the name of the president, "Woodrow Wilson."

The thirteen that distinguishes Miss Wilson at this particular time, is that she was the thirteenth White House bride.

Here is a list of the twelve weddings which have been held in the White House during its century of existence:
Lucy Payne, widow of a nephew of George Washington, and sister-in-law of President Madison, and Justice Todd of the supreme court, March 11, 1811.
Anna Todd of Philadelphia, cousin of Mrs. Madison, wife of the president, and Representative Edward Jackson, a great-uncle of "Stonewall" Jackson, 1812.
Maria Hester Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, and Samuel Law, Vice Governor of New York, 1820.
Mary Mellon, niece of Mrs. Adams and John Adams, son of President John Quincy Adams, February 20, 1828.
Jelia Lewis of Nashville, Tenn., a daughter of one of President Andrew Jackson's famous "Kitchen cabinet," and Alphonse Joseph Yver, Paquet Secretary of the French Legation, 1829.
Emily Martin, niece of President Jackson, and Lewis Donaldson, a grandson of Jefferson, 1831.
Mary Easton of Tennessee, niece of President Jackson, and Lucien B. Polk, a relative of President Polk, 1837.
Elizabeth Tyler, third daughter of President Tyler, and William Waller of Williamsburg, Va., January 31, 1842.
Emily Grant, daughter of President Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartoris, May 21, 1874.
Emily Platt, niece of President Hayes, and General Russell Hastings, formerly lieutenant-colonel of the 23d Regiment of Ohio Volunteers, June 1874.
Frances Polson, the president's ward, and President Grover Cleveland, June 2, 1886.
Alice Roosevelt, daughter of President Roosevelt, and Representative Nicholas Longworth, February 17, 1900.

Fifth President's Daughter.
Only four presidents' daughters have been married in the White House, and today's ceremony added a fifth. Nellie Grant and Alice Roosevelt were married in the East Room where the bride and groom will stand when President Cleveland, the only presidential White House bridegroom, was to marry. He chose the Blue Room, because the witnesses to the ceremony were few—only his and Miss Polson's relatives and the members of the cabinet and their wives.

History repeats itself with another democratic president and a minister of the same religion performing the service.
Nellie Grant and Algernon Sartoris were married in the East Room, because the company gathered, like that of today, was too large for any other room. A similar reason held the president's sister-in-law, Elizabeth Tyler, when she married William Waller and had a wedding described as the most brilliant of similar events of that time. She was a great beauty just nineteen, and left her father's home

MARKETING PROBLEM IS GIVEN ATTENTION

State Board of Public Affairs Devotes
Most of Its Time Today to Standardizing Products.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 25.—The state board of public affairs devoted most of its time today to the subject of standardizing Wisconsin products and their economical marketing. Each member of the board was requested to submit the names of three persons who might give new light on the subject. In addition, members of the state university faculty and the dairy school, and Dairy and Food Commissioner J. C. Emery, Assistant Commissioner H. Q. Larson and Deputy E. L. Aderhold offered suggestions.

Dr. Charles McCarthy and M. S. Dudgeon presented their views yesterday afternoon on co-operation as they saw it practiced in Denmark last summer. Dr. McCarthy has a plan of organizing producers of a community into a group, the members to have a label indicating the quality and purity of the product, by means of which consumers can trace the source of any defective conditions and thus ensure a high standard.

Dr. J. Lindholm of the staff of the board of public affairs gave his final report of the survey of the Milwaukee, Oshkosh and River Falls normal schools, which were studied in respect to administrative methods and the physical plant.

The members present were Governor McConnery, A. W. Sanborn, W. H. Hutton, R. J. Rye, Secretary of State J. S. Donald and John Humphrey.

MAY DEFINE ROUTES FOR OCEAN TRAFFIC

Question Raised in Annual Report of Naval Hydrographic Office
Made Public Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 25.—The question whether the United States and the European countries should prescribe the lanes to be traversed by ocean liners and pass laws requiring all vessels under the respective flags to adhere strictly to those lanes, is raised in the annual report of the naval hydrographic office, made public today. The lanes now in use were adopted by the steamship companies April 15, 1913, and will continue in force until changed by international agreement should be reached.

MRS. SHERMAN FITCH BURIED IN ST. LOUIS

Daughter of General William T. Sherman Laid to Rest Beside Remains of Her Father.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.—The funeral of Mrs. Minnie Sherman Fitch, daughter of General William T. Sherman, was held at St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church here today and the body was buried in the family lot in Calvary cemetery where General Sherman, his son Sherman and a son of the general are buried.

Ransom Post, of the G. A. R., of which General Sherman was one of the founders, acted as a guard of honor.

The high mass requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Bernard J. Otting, S. J., president of St. Louis university. Mrs. Fitch assisted her father in editing the published correspondence between General Sherman and his brother, Senator John Sherman of Ohio.

PROWLING THIEVES ENTER FOUR STORES

Small Change Taken From Cash Registers at Baumann Brothers'
Grocery and Heimer's Saloon.

Prowling thieves of a most determined variety entered four stores of North Main street some time about midnight Monday night and rifled two cash registers, one at the John Heimer saloon and the other at Baumann Brothers' grocery, securing a total of $15 or $20 in small change. Entrance was effected to the base-ment of the Miller pool hall and bowling alleys and to the barber shop of Wallace E. Watts, but nothing was taken at either place.

At the Baumann store the offenders evidently walked to the front door with the pretensions of one of the proprietors, applied a skeleton key and gained an entrance in spite of the fact that a light was burning near the safe in the rear of the store. The cash register was locked and a part of the money was locked in a private drawer inside. Another skeleton key was evidently applied to the cash register and the private drawer and the entire contents with the exception of a few coins, comprising a quantity of silver, was taken. The cash register was left locked and the prowler evidently went out the way he came in, being careful to lock the door. Articles in stock were not taken.

At Heimer's saloon entrance was not effected in such a bold manner. A back window was pried open and the marauder then had no trouble in crawling through another window which had been broken previously. He was not troubled with the necessity of trying a skeleton key on the cash register as it was unlocked. He took the money which it contained amounting to about $8. Mr. Heimer was in his place about midnight and the burglary must have been committed sometime later. Cash was waiting the offenders were after, as the stock in neither place was touched.

The Miller bowling alleys, the basement door was unlocked giving access to the alleys, but the door to the cigar store and pool room above was too securely locked to be tampered with. At the barber shop the burglars got no farther than the basement.

Police officials were engaged in making an investigation this morning but had no satisfactory clew.

HITCHCOCK DEFENDS BILL OF OPPOSITION

Supported by All of Republican Members of Senate Banking Committee—Caucus to Consider.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Nov. 25.—The struggle in the senate over the administration currency bill, which was opened yesterday with a short statement by Senator Hitchcock, continued today when Senator Hitchcock, also a democrat, took up the defense of the substitute bill agreed upon by the opposition faction in the senate banking committee.

Although the bill presented by Chairman Owen had the approval of the administration in most of its particulars, many prominent democratic senators are admittedly open to conviction upon the vital points which split the senate committee.

A democratic caucus will take up the subject later and attempt to reconcile democratic differences and bring the part into accord upon a bill that will be acceptable to the house and to President Wilson.

The forces led by Senator Hitchcock, who spoke today, include all of the republican members of the senate banking committee. Many democrats are favorable to those features of the Hitchcock bill which include public ownership of the stock of the regional banks and a small number of those institutions.

RAILWAY MEN HEARD ON PROPOSED RATES

Present Testimony to Interstate Commerce Commission Supporting Demand for Increase.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Representatives of railroads in Central freight association territory were heard today before the interstate commerce commission in support of the application for a general rate per cent increase in freight rates east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

INSPECTORS OF EGGS WILL DEMAND RAISE

Decide to Postpone Enforcement of Demands for $3 a Day Until After December 1.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25.—After a meeting lasting until early today, the Egg inspectors' Union decided to postpone enforcement of their demands for $3 a day of eight hours until after December 1st. On that date more than one million dozen eggs in Pittsburgh warehouses must be released under the Pennsylvania cold storage laws and the candlers are needed to inspect them. With this in mind twenty employers of candlers sent word to the union that they would continue to work until the first of next month the higher rate would be paid. The men are endeavoring today to secure the consent of the employers to a fifty per cent increase in their wages.

GENERAL ELECTRIC EMPLOYES WALK OUT

Seven Thousand Struck This Morning Shortly After Eight O'clock.
Conference Held.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Seven thousand employees of the General Electric Company struck this morning shortly after eight o'clock. The men and women walked out while a conference was in progress between General Manager Emmons, Superintendent Smith and union officials.

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF SANTOS ZELAYA

Former President of Nicaragua Will Be Provisionally Detained if Captured.

New York, Nov. 25.—United States Marshal Hendon said today that he had no trace of Santos Zelaya, the former president of Nicaragua, for the arrest of whom the department of justice issued a warrant yesterday.

Zelaya was last seen Saturday at a hotel in this city. One report had it that Zelaya had fled to Canada. The general's baggage was still at the hotel.

Additional Note Requested.
Washington, Nov. 25.—Although no application had been made to the state department for the extradition of former president of Nicaragua the department of justice has been requested to cause his provisional detention under what phase of law the detention is sought was not developed early today.

The reason for Zelaya's detention was generally supposed to be a charge of murder committed with the summary execution of Cannon and Groce, two Americans in Nicaragua in 1903. There was no official advice available early today. The Nicaraguan legation declined to make any statement or to confirm a report that Zelaya had been formally indicted in Nicaragua.

Corey M. Stadden, who was attorney here for the Nicaragua government during the Zelaya regime said he was unable to learn much about the status of the case. Later Stadden conferred with Secretary Bryan.

MINERS ARE SAVED FROM FLOODED MINE

St. Louis, Nov. 25.—A coal mine at Edwardsville, Ill., is being flooded by a stream of water that is pouring in to the mine from a nearby lake. The miners are in the air shaft for safety below the water level. An attempt was made to stop the flood with concrete, but the stream of water washed out the concrete before it could be set.

FEDERALS RETREAT BEFORE THE REBELS IN ANOTHER BATTLE

GENERAL VILLA, REBEL COM-MANDER, ORDERS GENERAL
ADVANCE ON OPPON-ENTS IN FLIGHT.

[BY ASSOC. VED. PRESS.]
El Paso, Nov. 25.—At noon today the constitutionalist officers in Juarez reported the attacking federals had been driven back all along the rebel front and that Gen. Francisco (Bachcho) Villa, rebel commander, had ordered a general advance of his men against the federals, declared to be in retreat.

FIGHTING NEAR JUAREZ

City Believed to be Out of Danger at Close of Second Day's Contest
Between Contending Armies.

El Paso, Nov. 25.—At noon today the constitutionalist officers in Juarez reported the attacking federals had been driven back all along the rebel front and that Gen. Francisco (Bachcho) Villa, rebel commander, had ordered a general advance of his men against the federals, declared to be in retreat.

An Associated Press representative stationed at the top of a wireless telegraph tower 300 feet high, three miles east of El Paso, confirmed the rebel report that the federals were falling back south of Juarez. He could see the maneuvers with field glasses.

Fighting Near Juarez.
At that hour fighting was still in progress south of Juarez, but the battle had passed the town of Juarez, which is twelve miles east of El Paso. The fighting there opened early today at the same hour that firing was heard on the rebel front. Inez Salazar, a former rebel general, but now a federal commander, was said to be leading the federals at Saragosa.

He had been reported a prisoner several times today, but the rebel officials at Juarez declared they knew nothing of his capture. The fighting was heavy at Saragosa, the roar of artillery being plainly heard in El Paso all morning.

Federals Driven Back.
Juan Medina, chief of staff to Gen. Villa, stated today that he believed that "Juarez is not in as much danger from the direction of Saragosa as in other directions," and added, "we will take care of them." Medina declared at noon that the federals had all but driven back as far as thirty miles south of Juarez, but that they were still in Saragosa. Today's fighting was the second day's conflict between the two contending armies said to total from 10,000 to 12,000.

Reports.
El Paso, Nov. 25.—The federal troops resumed fighting early today in their attempt to capture Juarez from the constitutionalists under Gen. Francisco Villa. Apparently they depended on their heavy guns to break the rebel lines today, but the opening with heavy cannoning.

Fighting Renewed.
Simultaneously firing opened at dawn southeast of the Juarez race track, opposite Ysleta, Texas, about twelve miles from Juarez. The federals used cannon in both attacks. The appearance of the federals near the race track indicated they had worked their way around the rebel outposts during the night.

The rebel fighting at Zaragos, opposite Ysleta, was taken to contradict the claim that Gen. Inez Salazar's federal troops had been surrounded and virtually made prisoners in last night's battle. The claim has been made by Juan Medina, chief of Gen. Villa's staff. Early today reports from Ysleta were that the fighting was heavy, the roar of cannon being plainly audible.

These reports stated that Villa had taken four wagon loads of supplies and ammunition across the border at Secorro during the night together with a considerable supply of forage for the horses.

The sound of battle south of Juarez, the center of Gen. Villa's battle front, could be heard at Juarez, but the fighting was not close enough for any bullets or shells to fall either in Juarez or El Paso.

Reports received at rebel headquarters at nine o'clock stated that the rebels had driven the federal center back to Samalayuta, thirty-two miles south. However, cannonading could still be heard at Juarez.

It was admitted at Juarez that some of the federals who had passed the constitutionalist right wing last night fighting for possession of the water supply at Rancho Flores, were twelve miles southwest of Juarez.

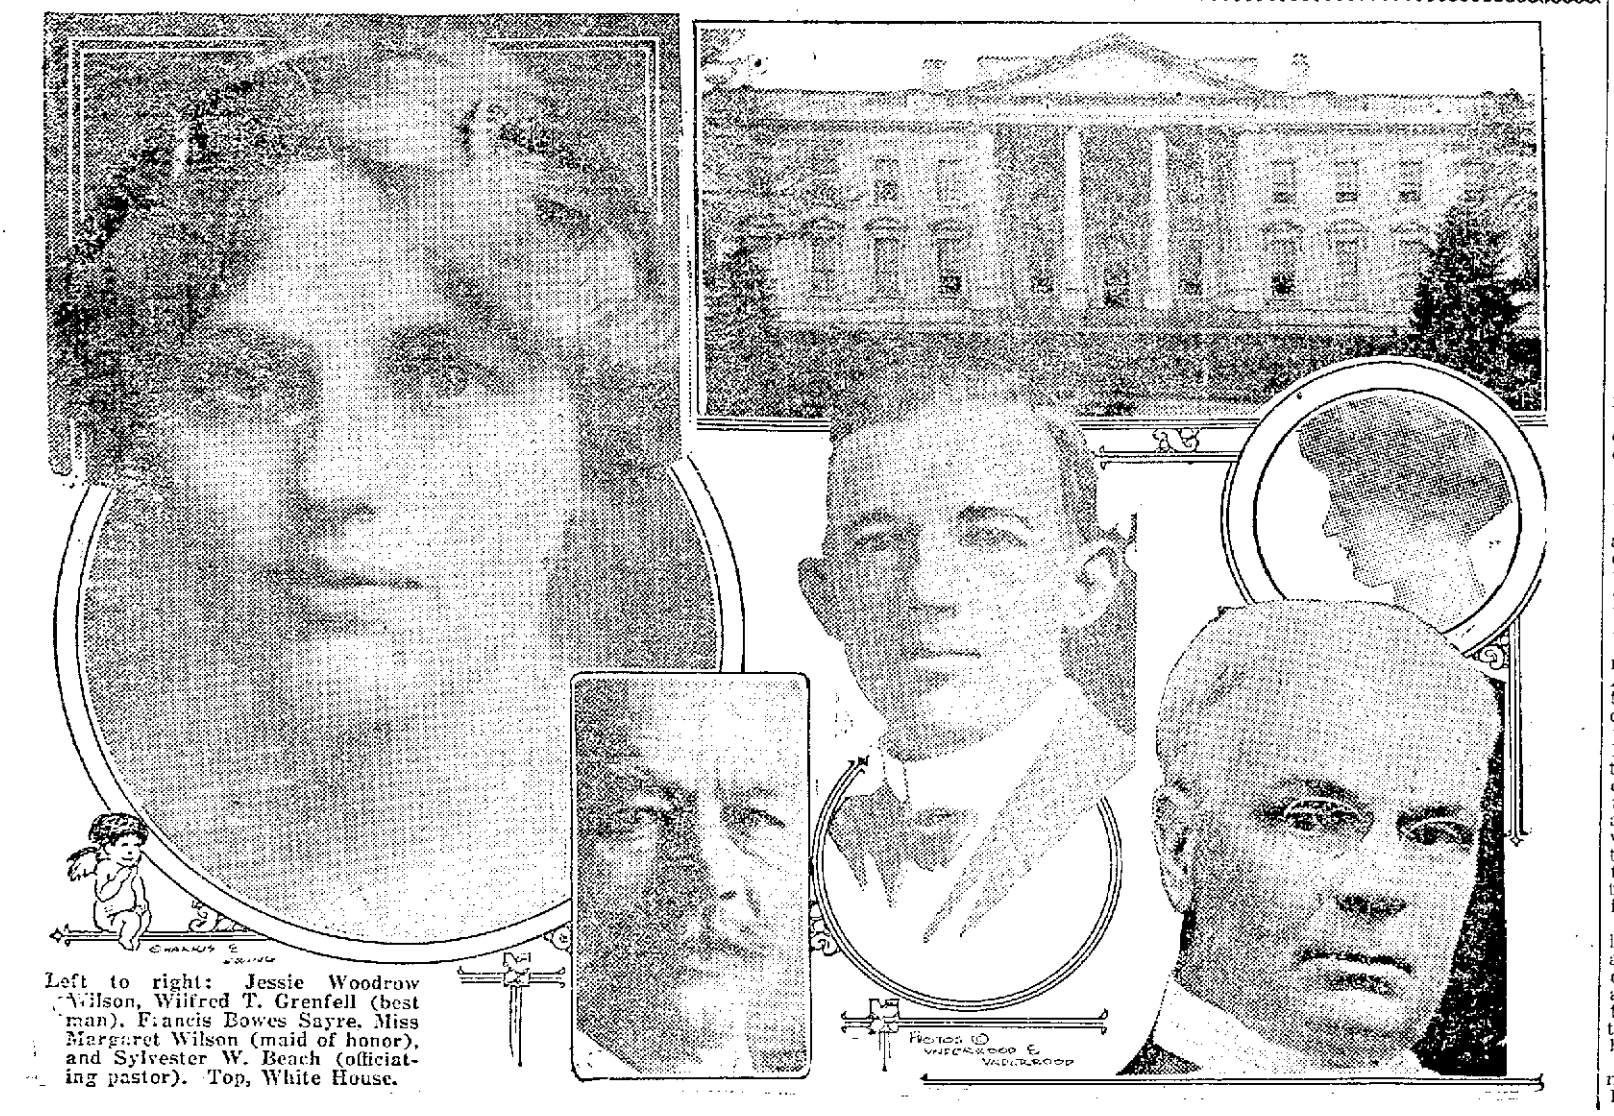

Officer Shot Down.
Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 25.—Standing against an adobe wall which bore the marks of bullets which had ended scores of lives, Lieut. John Castro, one of the Agua Prieta garrison, was shot to death today in view of the entire population of the Mexican border town.

Castro was sentenced to death by a court martial for having slain Maximiliano Montaviva, former wealthy Mexican land holder, but reduced by the fortunes of war to the necessity of living a hark. He was killed in a dispute over the fare he charged Castro.

No American Captive.
San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 25.—No American is held captive in Monterrey, Mexico, according to Mrs. L. Howell of San Antonio, who returned from the Mexican city today.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—Sleeping on arms under a downpour of rain, after their night of victorious fighting against the pick of the federal army, several thousand rebel troops under Francisco Villa rested this morning. The rebels expect to renew the battle today and hope to capture federal General Jose Salazar and his soldiers who are virtually prisoners near Rancho Flores. The rebels say they are anxious to capture Gen. Salazar so that he may be hanged to a telephone pole in Juarez.

Federals Repelled.
Though the federals were repelled from their attack to gain possession of Juarez after a night of fighting, Gen. Villa believes that he must further harass them if he would gain for his cause the territory north of Chihuahua City, and deliver upon the rebels the crushing defeat that the federal army of Chihuahua will be demoralized. Gen. Villa said the federal forces are a few miles south of Samalayuta, but with one of their troop trains completely surrounded by the rebels. The general expects the morning to be a day of the rescue of the train, and is making every precaution to defeat them.

PRETTY CEREMONY AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

Miss Clara Bohan of Avoca United in Marriage to D. Frank Ryan of This City.

This morning at St. Patrick's church, at eight o'clock, occurred the marriage of Miss Clara Bohan of Avoca, Wisconsin, to D. Frank Ryan of this city, Dean Reilly reading the marriage ceremony. Miss Norma Ryan, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and Edward C. Ryan, brother of the groom, was best man. Following the church ceremony a delicious wedding breakfast was served at the Grand Hotel to the immediate relatives and friends of the happy couple.

Plates were laid for thirty in the hotel dining room at nine-thirty. Vases with pink and white carnations were on each table. Around the room, on the walls, were strung green leaves, of a dark rich color. In the center of the room, dropping halfway from the ceiling to the floor, was a huge arch of white leaves on the bottom of the arch, or semi-circle, was a white bell, which was suspended directly above the bride's table. Electric lights were so placed that when lighted, a rich glow was sent into the midst of the various colored leaves of the room, forming a beautiful effect.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bohan of Avoca, and has been a teacher in the Jefferson school for some time. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ryan, and is associated with his father in business. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will make their home in the Peters apartments on East Milwaukee street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Bohan and the Misses Harriet, Helen and Josephina Bohan of Avoca and Mr. and Mrs. Miss Mehan of Beloit were among the out of town guests present at the ceremony and wedding breakfast. The bride and groom received many hand-presents from their friends and departed on a short wedding trip amid showers of rice and good wishes.

MRS. M'DOWELL TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

Wife of Late Composer Will Give Recital Before Local Club Bearing Her Husband's Name.

The McDowell club has postponed their meetings until after the holidays. They will give two concerts during the winter. The first will be given on January 18th. The club has been fortunate in securing Mrs. Edward McDowell, for that concert, who is a pianist of some note. She will give several of her husband's compositions and will give a talk on his life and the work he accomplished. Mrs. McDowell has several compositions of her own and is carrying out the work that they began together. Edward McDowell died in New York City in 1908.

ARREST BELOIT MAN UPON HIS ARRIVAL

Sam Szlos, Wanted to Answer Charge of Illegal Liquor Sale, Taken by Patrolman Smith.

Sam Szlos, wanted in Beloit to answer a charge of selling liquor without a license, was placed under arrest by Patrolman Harry Smith this morning as he stepped from the seven o'clock interurban car. He was taken to the Line City for a trial later this morning.

LAKOTA CLUB PLANS FOR ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTY

Arrangement Committee Named at Meeting Last Evening—Enjoy Smoker and Buffet Lunch

Members of the Lakota Club enjoyed a social meeting and smoker at the club rooms in the Jackson building last night. A buffet lunch was enjoyed later in the evening.

Initial plans were made for the annual holiday dance by the naming of an arrangement committee consisting of Oscar Yahn, chairman, George Caldwell, George Sennett, J. P. Hammarlund, Ralph Souman, Carson Eumgarner and Roy Cummings. As usual the ball will be given on Friday, December 26 in Assembly Hall. The committee will spare no effort to make the affair as attractive as those given in former years. As so many young people will be at home for the Christmas a large attendance is anticipated.

The music committee, consisting of Howard Cuthbert and Walter Adams, commenced planning the music several weeks ago. They will carefully select the different pieces so that every dance number will be a favorite.

Valentine Tells of Plans for a Merger

Janesville Man Testifies in Hearing As to Proposed Merger of Telephone Interests.

Richard Valentine of Janesville, Wis., general manager of the Rock County Telephone company, testified at the telephone trust hearing against the Bell interests in Chicago that Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telephone company, proposed a gigantic merger of the independent and Bell interests at a meeting of several hundred representatives of the independent companies.

Valentine said that President Vail broached the subject when the independent met in Chicago in 1913.

Mr. Vail suggested that something should be done to stop what he called "ruinous competition." Valentine testified. "He proposed that in localities where the Bell had the most subscribers it should absorb the independent company, and in a local-ty where the independent did the most business it should absorb the Bell. When he was asked who would bear the loss of the exchanges "junked," he said it should be charged up against the public for service."

FIRE IN BUNK CAR GIVES A LONG RUN

Department Called to St. Paul Roundhouse Last Night—Italians Are Lectured.

Fire in a bunk car occupied by Italians near the St. Paul roundhouse caused considerable excitement Monday evening shortly before six o'clock, the fire department responding to a still alarm. A hurried trip was made to the street crossing where the firemen were at a loss for some time to find the blaze that caused them the trip.

After some delay one of the firemen saw flames issuing from a small chimney of the section men's shanty, where the housekeeper had a small stove red hot, waiting for his countrymen to come home from their work. From the outside it appeared as if the entire interior of the car was burning and that all the flame was coming out of the chimney. It did no good for the firemen to lecture the Italian in charge, for all he did was smile and shrug his shoulders, not being able to understand the advice that was being given him about keeping a fire in a stove.

NEGRO IS CAPTURED IN BELOIT SALOON

Beloit Colored Youth Caught Attempting Larceny in Jimmy Clark's Saloon in Beloit.

Silas Payne, a Beloit negro, was brought to the Rock county jail for sale scoping last night from Beloit, where he had been arrested for attempting to rob the saloon of Jimmy Clark Sunday afternoon.

Sheriff C. S. Whipple took the prisoner to Beloit this afternoon to stand trial before Judge B. Clark of the municipal court. On being questioned Payne refused to give any information of his crime and told the sheriff he remembered nothing of the events that led to his arrest. Bail was set in the warrant at five hundred dollars.

OBITUARY
Freeman Arnold.

Death came to Freeman Arnold yesterday afternoon at one-thirty, at his daughter's home, Mrs. Louis Rumage, in the town of La Prairie. Mr. Arnold was born in Pennsylvania March 1st, 1833, and at the age of eight came to Rock county, where he has since resided. His wife died thirteen years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss eight children, four sons and four daughters. They are Messrs. F. J., of Brodhead; Arthur V. and Archie E. of Plymouth; and Harley R. Arnold of Rock, and the Mrs. Louis Rumage of La Prairie. Mrs. P. F. Stregmann, Janesville; Mrs. William Rumage, Rock; and Mrs. Glen Gordon of Brodhead.

Funeral services will be held from the home of his daughter in La Prairie Wednesday morning at eleven-thirty, and from the Plymouth church at two o'clock. Rev. C. W. Bong of Beloit will officiate. Interment will be made at the Plymouth cemetery.

Mrs. Johanna Tank.

Funeral services for Mrs. Johanna Tank were held yesterday afternoon at 1:30 from the home in Alton, and at two from the Afton Baptist church, Rev. J. C. Hazen of the local Baptist church officiating. The pallbearers were: Fred Klitzorn, Albert Stark, Edward Hammell, George Otis, E. Brinkman and R. Brinkman. Interment was made at the Afton cemetery.

A Thanksgiving Sermonette

The small boy thinks of Thanksgiving as a day to go through the agony of having his ears washed, being dressed in his Sunday Best and going to Grandpa's where, at dinner time, he is recompensed for this pain and trouble by having his plate piled high with turkey, cranberry sauce and all the other goodies, thus creating another pain, more acute and of greater dimensions.

We grown-ups don't always stop to explain to the boy why we observe this day and what its significance is. Wouldn't it be well to sit down and explain "the why?"

We are thankful for another year of prosperity; for the twelve months just passed during which we have been permitted to keep those most dear, close about us; for a better realization of life as manifested in the beauties of the changing seasons, the birds, the flowers and the unwritten music of all outdoors; for a better conception of faith and love for our fellow men as portrayed by many examples of faithfulness during the past year and for HEALTH, that great gift from God that has made possible all this great understanding.

Let the child understand that HEALTH is paramount; that the prevention of disease comes from the principals of right living—and that without health, no great supremacy is possible. Teach him the principals of right living—to breathe deeply, to think seriously, to drink copious draughts of pure water—and then tell him about HIAWATHA WATER.

Then when Thanksgiving Day arrives, have HIAWATHA on the table, and if the boy's appetite gets the better of him and he "peeks" while grandpa is asking grace he will see not only the big turkey but also the glass of HIAWATHA beside his plate and that will recall Health, Vim, Vigor—and your little talk and he will get again the real meaning of Thanksgiving plus, of course, the good that will come from the drinking of HIAWATHA.

WE ARE THANKFUL to the loyal merchants who have made it possible for us to supply you with HIAWATHA, and to you for trying and buying it; you have made our year prosperous and we have prospered you by giving you the means of better Health, which brings prosperity.

And so this Thanksgiving Day be sure and have HIAWATHA on the table; and in the afternoon while you are all sitting around visiting, and the dinner dishes are washed, you will find that the guests will relish a glass of HIAWATHA Ginger Ale—it so delightfully quenches the thirst, is so mellow, so pungent and aromatic. If you want your Thanksgiving Day complete, when you order the other delicacies from your grocer be sure and have him send you a case of each HIAWATHA Spring Water and HIAWATHA Ginger Ale.

Sport Snap Shots

American fighters in Paris are asking cops the nearest way to the headline. The fight business in Paris is not what it used to be and a bevy of American scrapers who had recently landed there expecting to cop off all sorts of coin are eating at the two-bit table of d'hotels. They say it's Jack Johnson's fault. Lil Artha's failure to meet some fast American heavyweight has disgusted French fight fans and they have turned from the American fighters altogether. Carpenter, the French champ, is still able to make a pretty wage and is generously supported by his countrymen. But Young Ahearn, and the American, and Badoux fought to a $650 house.

The Joe Highland-Pihan fracas drew but a measly $700. And it wasn't long ago that any dub fighter from the U. S. A. could pack the stands in Paris.

"It won't be a walk-away next season," says Connie Mack. Connie in discussing the Athletics' chances for next season very wisely does not vaunt any claims on next year's pennant, although of course he has a better claim on it than anyone else. He expects next season's to be a harder race than the one of the season past and declares that even though the Mackmen cop the pennant they won't have a pipe at it. "No team was ever got together," says Mack, "that could win pennants and treat the whole affair as a joke. Winning pennants is an earnest business." The White Sox, thinks Connie, will be vigorous little contenders next year in the American league race. They finished strong last summer. And you can't always tell about Boston either. They're one of those dynamite teams. They'll slump one season and come back strong the year following. The Cleveland Naps are steadily gaining in strength and should manage to put up quite an argument, if they gain as much in the next year as they did in the one past they will prove pretty tough little adversaries for the Athletics, thinks Connie. They are a much stronger bunch than they are given credit for. Connie Mack takes all of the above into consideration when he looks forward to the season approaching. "I believe I have made it clear that we aren't going to have a cinch next season. It doesn't pay to deroute the enemy. Don't think that I have lost any confidence in my crowd of champs. But I just want to be moderate in looking forward to our chances in the days to come." Indeed Connie is a wise old bird.

In the cheering and shouting of a football season we seldom stop to realize what an expense there is attached to the making of a first-class football team. A big college, getting eleven strong and husky young men together in good shape to flog the opposition on the gridiron is an enterprise that requires some little financial backing. For instance, every one of the Harvard stars of the season just coming to a close has cost the Alma Mater approximately $1,000 apiece. That is including the whole squad of subs and scrubs as well as the regular varsity. The big item in the expense account of a big school's football team is the coaching staff. Harvard felt that nothing too good in the way of coaches could be obtained and they spent about $15,000 in this end of the game alone. The expense of training and equipment, fitting special trains and all swells the sum no little. It is estimated that about $25,000 have been spent at Harvard this year on football and this would bring the cost of one player to something like $1,000. Quite an outlay for a season of sport that lasts but seven short weeks. Even so, Harvard isn't probably extravagant in this regard. Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Penn and Dartmouth annually spend several fortunes on the development of football teams that will do them honor on the gridiron. At the beginning of a football training season more than a hundred candidates will report and many of these must be supplied with football toes and equipment. After the weaker ones have been weeded out the squad is brought down to about thirty likely candidates, all of whom must be fed at a training table where there is the expense of a private chef and all. But the coaching staff is the big expense. Percy Haughton at Harvard gets over $8,000 a year for less than nine weeks' work.

SUPERVISORS OF WINNEBAGO REFUSE TO INCREASE PAY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Neenah, Nov. 25.—The Winnebago county board of supervisors rejected a resolution introduced to increase the pay of the members from $2 to $4 a day for the work. The board also declined to submit this question to a vote of the people.

SOPHS CAPTURE THE HIGH SCHOOL TITLE

Defeat Juniors 13 to 0 in Final Inter-sectional Battle Before Large Crowd of Students.

The sophomore football eleven are the 1913 gridiron champs of the Janesville high school. The juniors felt sure they could subdue the second year men, before yesterday's titanic contest, but after the game, there was a different story to tell. The second year eleven, seasoned for this game, were prepared to meet all lines of attack. There were fully five hundred students at the game. The feature run of the game was made by Rau, who covered over seventy yards. Fuchs, the crack quarterback for the juniors, stopping him on the ten yard line, thus saving a score. This run came at the opening of the game, and from then on, the juniors were always expecting something in the line of tricks, which had been stored away by the sophs. Frank Lee and George Spohn contributed a touchdown a piece, while Rau kicked the goals. For the juniors, Heath, at center, Taylor at half, and Fuchs at quarter, played the best game. Rau and Lee, at halves, and Spohn at quarter, showed up best for the sophomores. Both lines were fairly heavy, and showed good form.

This game yesterday ended the setting of the school title. Coach Curtis will find plenty of material out of both these teams who battled yesterday, for next year, and good chances for a title eleven will be in view at the opening of school next fall.

OSHKOSH IN REFUSAL TO PLAY SPARTA ARE ELIMINATED IN RACE

Northerners Object Playing Spartans, So Wisconsin High School Title Rests With Madison

To Play Spartans.
Oshkosh high school football eleven, five times champions of Wisconsin, have refused to play for the title this year. Three times, within the past six weeks, the lumberjacks, who battled with Janesville last fall for the title, have refused absolutely to meet the Spartans in a title struggle. These two teams have met once this year, the result being no score for either side. Oshkosh, therefore have no claim to the title, excepting in their section. The title of Wisconsin is now left between the Madison highs, champions of southern Wisconsin, and the Spartans.

If La Crosse should defeat Sparta on Turkey Day, it would mean, that the state title was practically and doubtlessly decided. Because, Madison won from La Crosse by the count of 26 to 3. That is as clear as can be made out. If Sparta wins, they should play Madison for the state title at a later date. If no game is arranged, then Sparta are champs of northern Wisconsin, with Madison superior in the southern section. Oshkosh are out of the race, unless their refusal is counteracted within the next week. Egoist claim the title of southern Wisconsin. If the extreme south, as for instance the border line is taken into consideration, then the state liners are supreme without a doubt, but after suffering such a defeat at the hands of Madison, they cannot claim the so-called southern state title. Madison are always recognized as being within the southern radius of the state.

In this vicinity the weather will probably be unsettled, with showers this afternoon or to-night. The winds will be brisk from southwest, and later from the northwest.

VALUABLE KNOWLEDGE.

Minnesota has twenty-three county agricultural agents whose duty it is to advise with and assist farmers in the solution of their problems. The St. Paul Farmer says that in every instance they have proved to be popular with the farmers and more are demanded. Wisconsin has seven, we believe, of these county agents with provision by law for ten.

Rock county had an opportunity to secure an agent of this kind, but turned it down, at the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors. This action was taken in the interests of economy, as there was no other claim to justify it.

There are but few men so concealed, in any line of business, as to feel that they know it all, and this is true of the farmer who knows today, if he knows anything, that farming is rapidly being reduced to a science.

It is to be regretted that every farmer in the county did not hear Professor Norgard's talk to the boys at the city hall last Saturday. The best of them would have been convinced that they had not yet absorbed all there was to learn about soil culture.

The redemption of soil and the scientific rotation of crops alone, was worth money to every man engaged in farming. We are living in an age when efficiency is recognized as never before.

The industrial world employs a class of men known as efficiency engineers—men who are able to go into a factory and locate the weak spots, and provide a remedy. In the business world experts are employed as business doctors, and many concerns are saved from failure and bankruptcy through the advice and care of this class of experts.

The same principles apply to the field of agriculture, and so the railroads and agricultural schools work together, to bring to the farmer scientific methods to better his condition.

This is the object of the county superintendent, which other states are employing to such good advantage.

There are some people whose vision is so obscured by the almighty dollar that they can't appreciate any motive not influenced by money. These are the people who said of the corn contest, just closed: "What does the Gazette get out of it?"

For the enlightenment of these beclouded minds, the Gazette will say that the paper "got out of it" a lot of satisfaction in encouraging the boys and demonstrating to their fathers that their land was capable of large production, when intelligently cultivated.

The five hundred dollars which the Gazette invested in the contest was seed cast upon the water which may or may not return after many days. The paper believes in the spread of useful knowledge, and therefore believes in a county superintendent.

AN EXPENSIVE JOB.

Early in 1912 a young New Yorker accepted a job on a ranch in Australia. He left a few valuables behind him in a safe deposit box, among which were 200 shares of American Marconi stock for which he paid $10 a share. He believed in wireless telegraphy and had predicted that his shares would be valuable in the future. Some after his departure the boom in Marconi occurred, and his stock rose to $400 a share. His brokers, who knew that he had the stock, tried to reach him by cable, but could not locate him, and even then it is doubtful if his safe deposit box could have been opened, even with cable permission. He had no relatives living. He arrived in New York last week and learned that his shares had been worth $80,000 at one time, but are now valued at but $5,000. He did not show any annoyance, and optimistically remarked that they would be worth $80,000 again some day.

MAY EXPLAIN SITUATION.

It is possible that the statements made in Washington recently by former Ambassador to Mexico Henry Lane Wilson, relative to the method by which Huerta obtained control of the provisional government of Mexico, may explain the attitude of the Mexicans towards the United States. Mr. Wilson states that he was one of the men responsible for Huerta's assuming the provisional presidency, and in view of this, the actions of President Wilson in refusing to recognize Huerta and his regime, must appear strange to the Mexicans. It, however, explains the recall of the ambassador, when his presence in the City of Mexico opposed the plans of the administration at Washington, but it left the "status quo" in the minds of the Mexicans. Ambassador Wilson says in his statement:

"The same professional bandits who made the revolution under Madero made the revolution against Madero and are now making revolution against Huerta. They cannot spell or understand democracy and are as yet unfit for government. They are simply bandits held together by the power of plunder. It is impossible to have a constitutional election in Mexico."

"I sent for Diaz and Huerta and with the concurrence of the British and German ambassadors, established the agreement by which Huerta became the head of the government. It saved the city. If it was to do over, I would do it again.

"I did not tell Huerta to do what he pleased with Madero, when he asked me whether he should send him to a lunatic asylum or to banish him."

"Madero was killed because a telegram, sent by his friends to General Valasquez at Vera Cruz, asking Valasquez to rise with the army in his behalf, was favorably answered and Valasquez' favorable answer was intercepted. Madero was killed by the soldiers to prevent another revolution and to revenge the death of Col. Riviera and Gen. Reyes."

"The government of Huerta was just as legally established as was that of Theodore Roosevelt after McKinley fell."

"If Huerta had been recognized by this government the revolution would have ended three months ago."

"Wherever before have appeals of Americans abroad fallen upon deaf and unsympathetic ears in their government?"

"Wherever before have American citizens been ordered out of a country without protection for their property?"

A THANKSGIVING SUGGESTION

In the olden days Thanksgiving was hardly complete without sweet cider along with turkey, cranberry sauce and all the other "fixings." Today we find that a popular Ginger Ale supplants the sweet cider of yesterday.

At the table, in the afternoon or in the evening, when the folks are gathered around to visit, a glass of HIAWATHA Ginger Ale sort of "tops off" the big meal.

In anticipation of Thanksgiving we manufactured some Thanksgiving Ginger Ale away back last July. You know Ginger Ale, like wines, mellow with age. For your Thursday dinner we can offer you the very choicest Ginger Ale you ever tasted—mild, yet gingery, mellow, aromatic, effervescent, a full fruit flavor—good for grand-dad or grand-son, full of snack and vim—your Thanksgiving dinner will be incomplete without it.

Your grocer will supply you—or if you think of it at the eleventh hour just phone us (either phone: Old phone 12; new phone black 1220) and we will see that you get yours.

HIAWATHA Ginger Ale is a truly healthful drink. Thanksgiving should suggest thankfulness for health, for without health there's no prosperity. "A case of health" is better than "a case of sickness,"—we'll send you the case; you send us the order.

Now don't wait and forget; we're waiting at the phone for your order NOW.

Two Full Pages Thanks-giving Advertising

Local Retailers Surpass All Previous Efforts. Pages 9 and 14 Full of Grocery, Meat and Thanksgiving Advertising.

No one can say that the city of Janesville does not have a live, progressive group of retailers. All the best things that any market can afford may be secured here. Just now they are making enormous preparations for the Thanksgiving season. In tonight's issue of this paper ten of them have used two full pages (9-14) to tell you what they will have. It will be to your interest to turn to those pages and see what they have to offer.

Practice Shoot: The Janesville Gun Club will hold a practice shoot Thursday afternoon, November twenty-seventh, at two o'clock, on their grounds on North Washington street.

Marriage Licenses: Marriage licenses have been issued by County Clerk Howard Lee to Arnold H. Fuchs and Emma E. Kaempfelein of Janesville; William G. Schultz of Waterloo and Lydia A. Priem of Beloit.

GIRLS! HAVE BEAUTIFUL, CHARMING HAIR AND NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Try This! Doubles beauty of hair in few moments, and stops it falling out—Grows Hair.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine" hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine from any drug-gist or toilet counter, and just try it.

GIRL'S LOVER HELD FOR SLASHING HER FACE WITH A KNIFE

District Attorney Dunwiddie Called to Beloit This Morning to Investigate Alleged Attack.

District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie was called to Beloit this morning to investigate the circumstances of a slashing affair in which Francisca Baltimore, a young Greek girl suffered deep gashes on her face and cheeks.
Her lover, Philip Loukas, is in the custody of the Beloit police, charged with the offense and his preliminary examination has been set by Judge Clark for Dec. 10th. In the meantime the girl is being cared for in the hospital where she is expected to recover, although the wounds will disfigure her for life.

The attack occurred last night on the north side of the city, near the Rosenblatt overall factory. The Ba-more girl and two girl companions were walking home early in the evening when a man stepped from behind a tree and struck the Baltimore girl with a sharp knife. Two deep gashes were cut in her face and both cheeks so that flesh hung from the lower part of her face. She was hurried into a neighboring house, while her assailant fled. She was given medical attention and was finally taken to her home but nothing was reported to the police of the affair until this morning. Loukas was at once arrested as the guilty party.
Loukas has been attentive to the Baltimore girl for some time, but his intentions were distasteful to her. He had threatened to attack her previously, the police learned, telling her that he would "cut up her pretty face."

A special meeting of Rock River Council No. 736, F. A. A. will be held Tuesday evening, November 25, at 8 o'clock sharp at the home of
Charles Kruse, 220 North Jackson Street.

Secretary.

On the Spur of the Moment

Life is worth living once again; The good old buckwheat cake is in our midst, the same old kind That mother used to make. The grumpy warmin' in the pan, The good old-fashioned way, From dad down to the hired man, We're ready for the fray.

Your high-toned French and German chefs Have never cooked a dish Of food that has come quite so close To fillin' every wish. When I am seeking to enjoy A dream of bliss divine, I do not seek a high-toned dish— Plain buckwheat cakes for mine.

It only takes about fifteen To set a feller right With all the world and make him feel Just simply out of sight. But always bring dyspepsia on, But still it's a good thing, Providing that you stop and think Of all the fun you had.

The Melancholy Days.
The melancholy days have come— It's getting toward December; the days we love to sit and dream before the glowing ember. We dig about for heavy duads in closets dark and dingy, and there, now and then we find a piece by moths made fringy. Then buckwheat cakes and sausage soon begin to shoot the chutes; the kay-lids and locusts have put up their noisy flutes. The groom and the plumbers smile, their season's just beginning, while ice-men who've held sway so long have ceased up on their grinning. The hunters polliw up their arms, and in anticipation, await the time to sally forth to scatter desolation. The turkey struts about the yard, never thinking what is impending, of how Thanksgiving brings about his surreptitious ending. The woodsman sharpens up his saw and swings his slung axe; while capitalists plot and scheme a way to dodge the tax.

Afterthoughts.
Chicago woman wants a divorce because her husband talks in his sleep. Well, a man has got to have a chance to talk some time, hasn't he?

A Chinese paper is to be established in New York. It should be almost as easy to read as some of the New York papers we now receive.

Secretary Houston says he wants to make farm life pleasanter for women. He can do so by cutting the working hours down from 18 to 16 a day.

It looks as though Old Tit Consumer will have to borrow an extension ladder from the fire department if he gets a turkey this year. The Zulu prince who is being educated at Harvard may grow up to a high position and great wealth. In time he may become a Pullman porter.

The Fall Suit.
The Melancholy Days have come, The saddest of the suit, My summer suit is not the thing I used to be, I fear. There used to be some class to it And folks admired its style; It held the center of the stage At our house quite a while. That was when it was up-to-date And strictly in the game. Before the chilly autumn winds Carved round my frame. I'm going to have a new fall suit. The very latest thing; If I save up my dough, I think, I'll have it by next spring.

A toast, Here's a toast short and sweet

"CASCARETS" IF HEADACHY, BILIOUS, SICK WHEN SHAKY, CONSTIPATED—DIME A BOX

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—foul gases, bad breath, yellow

To the man who sells meat:
We wish him a long life and fat,
May he be just as old
As the chickens he's sold—
No man could be older than that.

A Toast.
When a good friend comes along,
And he smites you on the back,
When he lets his hand come down
With a good resounding whack,
And he wishes you good luck
And of sold a large round pot,
It may jar your teeth a bit,
But it helps you quite a lot.

Today's Edgerton News.

MISS MARY E. MURRAY WEDS STOUGHTON MAN

Marriage to William Murphy Solemnized by The Rev. Father J. E. Harlin Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Wis., Nov. 25.—Miss Mary E. Murray of this city and William Murphy of Stoughton were married at nine o'clock yesterday morning at St. Joseph's church, the Rev. Father J. E. Harlin performing the ceremony. The wedding was a quiet one and only the immediate relatives and a few invited friends of the bride and groom were present. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Laura Dooley of Footville, John Kealey, a cousin of the groom, served as best man. Following the ceremony the bridal party were served with an elegant wedding breakfast at the Carlton Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Murphy quietly slipped away in an automobile to Milton Junction, where they boarded the 11:30 train for a trip through the western states. An anxious crowd well supplied with cameras waited their arrival at the Edgerton station but failed to see them as they passed through.

"PIRATES" COMING TO MYERS THEATRE

Treble Clef Club of Beloit to Present Old Fashioned Comic Opera on Thursday Night.
"The Pirates of Penzance," the old Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera that delighted the passing generation and continues to delight the younger, will be presented at the Myers Theatre on Thursday evening by the Treble Clef Club of Beloit. There are about fifty people in the cast and a large orchestra. The initial production by the Treble Clef was given on Tuesday evening, November 13, at the Wilson Theatre in Beloit. Wilbur Rodhouse is in charge of the stage direction.

Epitaph Social: On account of the death of Freeman Arnold, a respected resident of the town of Plymouth, the supper and entertainment scheduled for Wednesday night at the Plymouth M. E. church has been postponed until Friday evening, Nov. 28.

ENTERTAIN FRIENDS ON WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A party of twenty-five people were delightfully entertained last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Crowe, South Main street, the occasion being their fourth wedding anniversary. A dainty luncheon was served.

ARE CONSTRUCTING WIRELESS STATION FOR TIME SERVICE

Time Sent Out Each Afternoon by Stations at Beloit College, to Be Received Here.

Prof. John Arbuthnot, with the help of some of his student experts, who have spent several years on the new invention, are erecting a station on top of the local high school building for the purpose of receiving each afternoon from the Beloit College sending station the exact radiotelegraphic time, within one-hundredth of a second. Mr. Arbuthnot believes this scheme is a wise move, because the wireless stations are being placed throughout the country at the rate of hundreds every month. The wires which pass from the station on top of the building to the instruments on the first floor, are attached to the back wall of the building, running to the end nearest the instruments. The apparatus will be up for service by next week, it is thought. Only the receiving instruments will be set up at present. It is expected that there will be a strong enough receiving force to hear reports from the Great Lakes stations located at Milwaukee, Racine, and possibly Chicago. The set owned and operated by Philip Taylor, a student in the school of engineering, is being used. The station is on his house, and he expects to be able to communicate with the high school. He has already received messages from Norfolk, Virginia, a distance of nearly eight hundred miles, and has understood some of the communications, although the speed has been very high.

The new station at the high school will be one of the best and strongest in this section of the state. Long distance messages will be taken readily. The apparatus will be studied along with the course in electricity and a special feature study will be made of the apparatus and its achievements.

AMUSEMENTS

"STOP THIEF."
Hey there! take your hand off your watch and the other off your money! You needn't watch them! The cur-tain's down and all the thieves are gone. Anyway, it's all a play. They really aren't thieves. It is said that the illusion is so perfect in "Stop Thief," which Colan and Harris will present at the Myers Theatre for Friday, November 28, that the audience who have seen the play really do feel unconsciously for valuables, while the other half think of calling for the police. A novel play of any sort creates art, and this play of art and drama that has been attained. When you add that that play is a farce, you have an idea of how funny it must be. For the closer to the truth the basis of a farce is set, the funnier it is.

Carlyle Moore, the author, has written his farce around two kismet maniacs and a real crook. A novelty in play construction is the author's device, which provides that the incidents of the play occur during the play's actual playing. It is said to be a wonderful mixture of complications which the author has provided. It proved to be one of Broadway's most successful plays last season and will be presented here with the same company that appeared at the Gaiety Theatre, New York.

Lillian Russell Tonight.
John Cort, the handsomest woman and the handsomest man on the American stage in his John Cort Feature Festival, with its own special orchestra and forty famous artists, to be seen in this city tonight at Myers Theatre—Lillian Russell and William Farnum. The salaries of these two celebrities amount to more than the weekly cost of operating any two of the most pretentious theatre amusements in the United States. Then there are other artists in the same company with Miss Russell and Farnum whose salaries are the highest paid to performers of their respective types.

The organization, featuring Lillian Russell as the star attraction, is said to be altogether the costliest theatre amusement in the United States. Undoubtedly, it is the most expensive of all the traveling enterprises that play in theaters. Next to the Lillian Russell company, it is said, the most financially extravagant theatre amusement on tour this season is Mr. Cort's other vaudeville offering, the Anna Held Parisian Varieties, to visit this city later in the season.

Miss Russell will be seen in a novel act, consisting of the songs that made her famous as the queen of comic opera, and the noted beauty will depict her daily routine of health and beauty promotion, and display the last word in London and Paris gowns, etc.

Allen Farnum, heralded as the modern master tragedian, will appear

BE JEALOUS OF THE BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

In other words, be careful of it. The beauty of your hair depends upon its health. If it's beautiful, it's healthy. To make it glossy, bright, silky-soft—to make it fall more easily into the graceful, wavy folds of the coiffure—to make it stay where you put it—use Harmony Hair Beautifier. This dainty liquid dressing is just what it is named—a beautifier. If your hair is beautiful now, use it to make it even more so and to preserve its loveliness. If it is not beautiful now, Harmony Hair Beautifier will improve its appearance in a way to please you, or money back. Its rose fragrance will overcome the oily smell of your hair. Easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold in this community only at our store, The Rexall Store—one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores of the United States, Canada and Great Britain, which own the big Harmony Laboratories in Boston, where the many celebrated Harmony Perfumes and Toilet Preparations are made. Smith Drug Co., 14 W. Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

In the most spirited scenes in John McCullough's lavishly version of the "Virginian," in this act, the handsome Farnum will have six associate players, and a pageantry of scenic and costume detail said to be more lavish than anything of this sort ever previously attempted, even in the historic apparel and stage settings of the most famous tragic stars. Mr. Cort is to star Farnum in legitimate drama—"Virginian," "Ingomar," "The Gladiator," etc.—next season, hence the elaborate care in the matter of supporting players, costumes, scenery, etc., in the young actor's present production.

Wool Dress Fabrics Of Quality:

What's your "system" of buying goods? If dependability counts with you more than fashions' fickle fancies, you'll throw prejudices to the winds and judge our goods on their merits. Buy dress materials of known merit, those made by the Janes-town, Broadhead, Collingwood, Gera Worsted Mills, B. Priestley & Co., and others, whose reputations are so firmly established that it would be impossible for anyone to try to asperse them. Their fabrics are accepted as standards for a comparison among those who know whenever the merits of other makes are being discussed. Goods with this reputation certainly cannot be overlooked when you come to make your choice. For a Xmas. gift, what could give more pleasure and satisfaction than a good dress pattern of dependable quality.

BEAUTIFUL CREATIONS

Attendants Wear Pink in Varying Shades—Brief Description of Gowns of Prominent Women.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, November 25.—Just what the bride and bridesmaids would wear at the White House wedding of today has been carefully guarded until the event itself took place, but the general character of the bridal gowns
and toilettes had become pretty well known.

The Bride's Costume.
Pure white satin of a soft weave but with a decided sheen was the material of the bridal gown and real lace and orange blossoms adorned it. The mode was that of the best designers of the day and a slim effect was secured although the satin draped on the skirt.
The outline of the round neck was marked by embroidery which extended down one side of the skirt. The court train was quite long and narrow and was hemmed straight across the square edge. The lace appeared on the corsage and made a dainty trim to the elbow sleeves.

on waist and skirt matched the satin underneath. Marie Antoinette collars and flowing sleeves of creamy lace were smart touches. In their pink moire hats, the trimming is of silver lace.

Mrs. Wilson's Gown.
Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President, wore chiffon brocaded in velvet in an ecru tint. Lace in the same tone and a fringe of pink tails was the chief embellishment.

The bride's travelling suit was in dark green and her hat was in the same color.

There were many elaborate gowns
among the guests some of them being briefly described below.

Mrs. Bryan's In Velvet.
Mrs. Bryan, wife of the Secretary of State, wore a coat suit in velvet. The skirt was draped on the left side. The coat was edged with Siberian squirrel around the bottom and the collar was of the same fur. Her toque was of plush, harmonizing in color with her dress. It was edged with Siberian squirrel and a fancy leather ornament
was in front.

Lady Spring-Rice.
Lady Spring-Rice, wife of the British Ambassador, and a newcomer to the present makeup of Washington society, wore one of the most elegant costumes seen. It was of champagne of a dull gold shade, the skirt bordered with an embroidered band of chiffon in which several soft colors showed. The skirt had something of the panther effect and the embroidered chiffon was used in the make of the bodice. Her hat had a top matching the dress and had an ostrich feather the same shade
as the left side. She wore a splendid set of marten fur as a wrap.

Mrs. Redfield's Costume.
Mrs. William R. Redfield, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, wore a plum
colored calling costume of silk crepe.

There was a dainty arrangement of
chiffon and lace with silver embroidery in the softly draped bodice. Her velvet hat matched in color and had a
band of dark fur and a single red rose.
Mrs. Edward Douglas White, wife of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, wore a costume of black char-
meuse and point lace and a black hat
trimmed with white plumes.

Mrs. McKenna, wife of Associate
Justice McKenna, wore a black velvet
costume. The coat had a blue collar
and vest. Her black hat was trimmed
with plumes.

Mrs. Martine in Black.
Mrs. Martine, wife of Senator Martine, of New Jersey, chairman of the Senate Committee which selected Miss Wilson's wedding gift, wore embroidered black chiffon and black silk. White chiffon and tulle appeared in the waist
and where the draperies were caught
there were small rhinestone buttons.

Stop Drinking

Sobriety is a factor in every day life. No matter what a man's occupation may be he can not give his best attention to his work if the senses be dulled by the effects of alcohol. By constant drinking every man arrives at a stage where alcohol no longer stimulates but is a positive poison to his system. Hence the necessity of treatment to get that poison out of the system and to restore to its normal conditions.

Old time liquor cures were dangerous, long drawn-out and failed to give results. The Neal Treatment is progressive; it is safe, sane and scientific; it eradicates the alcoholic poison, takes away all craving, desire and appetite for liquor and in a few days enables the drinking man to face the world a clean, healthy person, free from the habit, care of eye and even of mind. For further particulars and booklet call upon or write,

and the White House to begin her married life in a quiet country place.

East Room Weddings.
The first East Room wedding was that of Anna Todd, niece of President Madison's wife. Two years after President Tyler married his daughter off in the presence of the grandsons of his day hereabouts, he married a second time himself. He went to New York and his marriage with Miss Julia Gardner followed at her home.

President Cleveland made a precedent in having the lady of his choice come to the White House for their marriage, but he followed President Tyler's program in holding a reception in the White House after their honeymoon journey to Deer Park, to which all the notable of the official and resident world of the capital were bidden. President Tyler held his reception the day after the wedding. The couple received for two hours and then the bride showed herself on the south balcony to the crowds assembled in the garden for
the usual weekly concert.

niture through a want ad.

Taste in Selection.
The bridal veil was arranged in the present fancy for the cap effect, the lace being nearest the face and orange blossoms giving the conventional touch to the coiffure.

The entire gown expressed the bride's taste in the selection of her trousseau which is of fashionable materials and made on smart models
without a vestige of exaggeration in any detail.

Attendants in Pink.
Pink in varying shades was the color of the dresses worn by the five attendants. The palest tint of all was worn by the maid of honor. Two of the bridesmaids were dressed in a rose shade and the two others in a much lighter pink. The material was charmeuse and the over drapery of chiffon

colored calling costume of silk crepe.

There was a dainty arrangement of
chiffon and lace with silver embroidery in the softly draped bodice. Her
velvet hat matched in color and had a
band of dark fur and a single red rose.

Mrs. Edward Douglas White, wife of
the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, wore a costume of black char-
meuse and point lace and a black hat
trimmed with white plumes.

Mrs. McKenna, wife of Associate
Justice McKenna, wore a black velvet
costume. The coat had a blue collar
and vest. Her black hat was trimmed
with plumes.

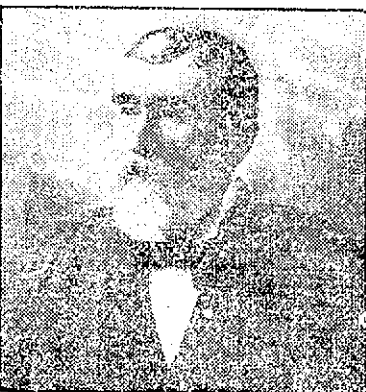

Mrs. Martine in Black.

STABBED TO DEATH BY GANG OF ROBBERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee Machinist Found Murdered at West Allis, With Eight Knife Wounds on Body.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Nov. 25.—The body of a man supposed to be William Souerfield of West Allis, a suburb, was found with eight knife wounds in the back and neck today in a secluded spot just north of the city.

It is believed the man was a victim of a gang of robbers who have been working among homes of Milwaukee's wealthiest people about White Fisher Bay and Fox Point for the last month. Just twenty-eight homes have been entered and although many shots have been exchanged none of the robbers nor the robbed have been injured.

The dead man is about 40 years old and a machinist.

Thanksgiving Day-1913

AMONG the great and good gifts to man, for which everyone should be grateful, is Electricity. Consider what aid this mystic energy affords man in his struggle with matter-- how he has adapted it to the betterment of his social, educational and commercial life--in how infinitely many ways he employs it for his safety, comfort enjoyment and the multiplication of his puny power. Long undreamed of--once a privilege of the wealthy few--Electricity for light, heat and power is today within the means of the most humble home.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACHACHE AND RHEUMATISM VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Quick Relief.

A few doses of Croxone never fail to relieve such troubles, because it cleans out the clogged up, inactive organs, and makes them work properly. It soaks right into the kidneys, cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder; dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, and scratch and irritate, and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the lifeless kidneys so they can filter, and sift the poison from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure—so positive—so quick and lasting are the results obtained from Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days, are often all that is required to end the worst backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and put the kidneys in healthy, active condition.

It is practically impossible to take this quick-acting, effective preparation, without results.

An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to promptly give desired results, regardless of how old you are or how long you have suffered.

THANKSGIVING FEAST WILL BE EXPENSIVE

Turkeys Selling at Twenty-six, Chickens Seventeen and Geese Eighteen Will Flatten Purse.

What will the cost of the Thanksgiving dinner be? This question is proving a trying one for the Janesville housewives, and there is a general feeling that many of the more expensive foods which have appeared at this notable dinner in previous years will be missing because of the great increase in the price of staples which usually keep the table on this date.

First comes the turkey. This fowl which has always been connected with the Thanksgiving feast, will cost in this city from twenty-five to twenty-eight cents per pound, a total price of over two dollars for a respectable sized bird. This amount will be added to the cost of making the delicious dressing of oysters, which will make an increase in the expense. Even at this price turkeys are scarce, and many of the Janesville meat men have been unable to secure enough birds to even hope to meet the demand. The country has been scouring for the birds, and after the Thanksgiving holiday turkey prices will be even higher.

Next comes the housewife, wishing a turkey for the Christmas dinner will probably have to pay thirty cents a pound.

Many hope to seek relief by purchasing a few ducks and geese, and geese are selling at seventeen cents. More geese and ducks have been bought by the butchers this season than ever before, preparing for the Thanksgiving orders. Cranberries took a slight raise because of the big demand, being sold at a stilling and fifteen cents. Celery, a necessity of a sufficient quantity will cost at least fifteen cents. Oysters for the dressing or soup course cost forty-five cents per quart.

Oranges bring twenty-five and thirty-five cents per dozen, and the best are bringing forty cents. Apples are selling at twelve and thirteen cents per pound, and apples are very high, the best selling at four for a quarter. The vegetables, with potatoes at ninety cents a bushel and other products considerably high, will add materially to the cost.

With all these items comes mince pie, puddings with whipped cream and desserts that will increase the total cost around the five dollar mark, not counting the cost of cooking, the turkey being in the oven for hours.

The butter and lard needed at eighteen and thirty-six cents per pound, the Thanksgiving dinner will be a serious problem in many Janesville homes.

Housewives are warned to watch for cold storage meat as the Chicago men have been riding their plants of vast amounts of product during the last few weeks as the winter weather has threatened ruin, the product spoiling on them and rendering it unfit to be sold even under storage name and prices.

JOHNSTOWN

Johnstown, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Jesse Stone intends to leave Thanksgiving for a visit with relatives in England, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Emory Cary of Milton.

Miss Nellie Carlson of Whitewater was a guest Saturday and Sunday of her chaperone, Miss Alice Finn.

Mrs. O. A. J. and son of Whitewater spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. C. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cook and daughter of Janesville visited Sunday at the home of J. W. Jones.

Mrs. P. J. Michalski is home from a week's visit with the home folks at Milton.

R. W. Taylor thought he would discover where the dogs belonged that frequented his sheep pen. The first night he caught his neighbor's dog, also the next night he caught another neighbor's dog in a trap.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Henry Lorkie and family spent Sunday at Emile Frank's near Janesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rorklund accompanied Mrs. Hugh Loomer and baby boy to Millard last week and spent the week with them.

Mrs. C. Gessler visited her daughter, Mrs. Frank Helman, Sunday at the island.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Avon Rye were spending the day with Milton relatives and when they returned they hired a team from the Green Day reformatory, had taken horses and cart, Mr. Rye's overcoat and the little boy's bank, filled up on hard cider and skipped. Later he was found in Whitewater in the lockup.

STRENGTH FOR OLD PEOPLE

Old people, to overcome the weakening, debilitating effects of increasing old age, often make a very sad mistake in using so-called "remedies" that contain alcohol and narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Often this stuff, because it livenes and brightens them up a little just after taking a dose, leads them to imagine that it is doing them good when it isn't. Remedies that rely for their sale on such deceit, to liven up the nerves and excite the system, because the false excitement of the nerves and heart leaves them worse than they were before.

Reckall Olive Oil Emulsion is a real medicine—a splendid body and strength-builder, especially good for old people, because it furnishes to the system ingredients necessary to rebuild wasted tissues, strengthen the nerves, give new energy and a younger and brighter feeling to the body. It doesn't contain a drop of alcohol nor any dangerous drug. It may not make you feel better after the first dose, nor perhaps for several days. But if you don't feel much better and stronger before you have taken a quarter as much as you have of other medicines that didn't help you, we will gladly give you back your money. That's certainly a square deal.

The four Hypophosphites it contains are used by leading physicians everywhere in debility, weakness and liability to disease, to tone and strengthen the nerves. Reckall Olive Oil, one of the most nutritious, most easily-digested foods known, being taken with the hypophosphites, gives rich tissue nourishment to the entire system.

You who are weak and run down, and you who are apparently well now, but are liable to suffer from various cold weather ailments, use Reckall Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. For the tired-out, run-down, nervous, emaciated or debilitated convalescing—growing children—aged people—it is a sensible pleasant-tasting aid to renewed strength, better spirits, glowing health. If it does not help you, your money will be given back to you without argument. Sold in this community only at our store—The Reckall Store—one of more than 7,000 leading drug stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain. Smith Drug Co., 14 W. Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE—130 acres of good Rock County farm land, good buildings, well located, on good road. E. H. Peterson, Janesville, Wisconsin. 31-11-6-11.

FINANCIAL

INVESTMENTS—On the securities we have sold in Rock County a large number of interest loans were made by November 1st, also the principal on some. Every item of principal and interest due was promptly paid as well as some items not due until December 1st and January 1st. In addition to collecting interest and principal for our customers we have looked up each piece of land on which we have sold a mortgage to see that the taxes due in 1913 are paid. These securities have been taken care of like this each year during the 13 years we have sold them in Rock County. We have on hand for sale some well secured securities, including bonds that will be taken care of the same way. Gold-Stabeck Loan & Credit Co., W. O. Newhouse, Vice Pres. 33-11-20-11.

FINANCIAL—We own and offer for sale Judith Land Company 57% Bonds. Nonpayment $2,400, $500 and $1,000. Maturities 1917, 1918 and 1919. This loan was made by the Northwestern Trust Co., of St. Paul two years ago, after they had examined the security and found it worth about four times the amount of the loan. The security is more valuable now than it was when the loan was made. We examined the security and found it excellent. We bought the loan and recommend these bonds as first class. Gold-Stabeck Loan & Credit Co., W. O. Newhouse, Vice Pres. 33-11-20-11.

FOR SALE—First farm mortgages, nothing but first class, 60 So. River land worth from three to ten times the amount of the mortgage. E. H. Peterson, Janesville, Wis. 33-11-6-11.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 25, 1873.—Bloody Times at Beloit: They are having an epidemic of accidents over in Beloit. Since Friday last, three persons have lost fingers, two by the aid of car bumpers and one through the intervention of a circular saw, one man suffering the fracture of a shoulder, three boys broke through the ice and nearly drowned, a boy and a man sacrificed legs under the wheels of a moving train, and another individual fell down stairs, ten unfortunates in all. Life in Beloit is getting uncertain.

The opera house seems to be a popular place of late and the treasury of Tont Trusts received a liberal accession of fractional currency in consequence. These tiny representatives of mankind and woman-kind will occupy a prominent place in the list of the world's wonders as long as they live. Though they have often been before the Janesville public, their appearance at the present time has developed a greater public interest.

The case of the state against Pratt for disturbing a religious meeting at Beloit resulted in the acquittal of the defendant. The alleged offender was named as being guilty of rising in the meeting and attempting to argue with the preacher upon certain religious points and would not be suppressed. Hence the action and the result above named.

Regular meeting of the common council last night.

The river is frozen across the upper bridge and above the dam and prospects are excellent for a drowning item.

Rev. Charles L. Thompson appeared at the Presbyterian church last night and delivered his lecture on "Heroism" to an audience composed of appreciative people. The lecture was very eloquent and interesting.

IS A CHEER-A-KEY (HEROES)?
IF A HOBO CRACKED A JOKE WOULD YOU CALL IT BUM COMEDY?

AN OLD REMEDY

Beef, Iron and Wine is one of the good old remedies that has outlived a score of patent tonics, reasonable in price, a satisfactory tonic, appetizer and mild stimulant. There is nothing better for that tired, worried, listless feeling or run-down condition of the system after illness of any kind. It tones the whole system, stimulates digestion, gives you appetite, is a good iron tonic for weak, pale children or old people, far more effective than malt extracts or so-called wine of cod liver oil that depend upon their stimulants alone. Beef, Iron and Wine tones and sustains, it assists nature to recuperate, it's a food to the sick and nursing mothers.

Mr. Pennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, prepares our Beef, Iron and Wine. It's always fresh, made from the very best extract of beef, wholesome, properly aged sherry wine and soluble iron.

We don't sell ready-made, hand-made, factory-manufactured Beef, Iron and Wine. We believe and know that medicine made by compounding only by the experienced and scientific ally trained.

Try a bottle of our Beef, Iron and Wine as made by Mr. Pennig. 75c a full pint. Note its wholesome taste and invigorating effect. You will be more than satisfied. Get it at the Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River streets.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

BAD LOGIC.

"AND SHE took those stockings out and looked every one of them over before she would give me the exchange slip," said the lady across the way indignantly. "If I would try to change a pair of stockings I had worn! I think it was an insult!"

The viewpoint of the lady across the way is as childish as it is common. To resent rules that are made not for you but for the kind of people who require such restraint is unthinking and unreasonable.

Of course the lady across the way is not a saint. But there are plenty of people who will stoop to such meanness and it is for them that the rules are made that all articles returned shall be carefully examined before acceptance.

Another woman whom I know was much insulted because a certain shop would not accept her check for a purchase. The manager explained it was a rule of the company, but she refused to be pacified. "That might all be very well when dealing with crooks," she admitted, but she was an honest woman and expected to be treated as such, and she would never enter that shop again.

"But couldn't they tell by my face that I was honest?" she demanded, when on hearing the tale I ventured to suggest that such safeguards were necessary because of dishonest people. And it was all in vain that I tried to point out to her that there are plenty of crooks who know how to look and act honest and that the firm has to make its rules with reference to such people. She persisted in thinking that even if there had to be such rules she should have been the exception.

Nor is it the illogical sex alone that insists upon regarding a general rule as an individual insult. I know a man who was most indignant because the gas company required a five-dollar deposit before they would turn on the gas in his home. "That's all right for those flat-dwellers who move every year or so," he fumed, "but for me who has been a householder in this town for forty years, its absurd, its an outrage!"

A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. It is the dishonest man who must be considered when rules are made, and that the honest have to obey such rules is no reflection on their character. It is merely the inevitable consequence of living in a world where there are dishonest people. And to regard this enforced obedience as a personal insult is simply to show one's lack of reasonableness and logic.

Attractive Sunday Breakfasts. Just why Sunday breakfasts should require special planning is not plain to everybody, but it is to the housekeeper who wishes this meal to be unusually inviting on this day.

When more time can be taken to enjoy it, but she is anxious not to let the family rise early for her or an unnecessary amount of work.

Having one thing which is a great favorite with all the family is a pleasant surprise for the breakfast table, or making some new dish which you are sure all will like brings change and pleasure into this meal.

If there is fruit have it all in readiness the night before, baked or chilled or prepared. The table should look especially inviting with its clear breakfast cloth or dollys and a flower or fruit in the center.

Sunday Breakfast.
Grapefruit or Any Seasonable Fruit.
Bunker Corn Bread and Butter.
Bacon and Eggs.
Coffee.
Cocoa.
Bunker Corn Bread.
Materials—White corn meal, one-half cup; bread flour, one-half cup; sweet milk, one-half cup; soft butter (rounded) or vegetable fat, one teaspoon; salt, one-fourth teaspoon; baking powder, two teaspoons; egg.

Directions—Beat the egg until very light, add the milk and the dry ingredients all sifted well together, adding the butter or fat last. Beat up quickly and turn into a small deep, well-greased pie pan. Bake in a moderate oven fifteen minutes. If like sweetened a little the one teaspoon of sugar. In doubling the recipe use three teaspoons of baking powder.

The above was our Sunday breakfast for four, where there was no helper in the family. It was easy to get and well liked by all. One member of the family drinks cocoa and it should be used where there are children.

Sunday Breakfast.
Baked Apples.
Creamed Dried Beef on Toast.
Ern's Doughnuts.
Coffee.
Cocoa.
Ern's Doughnuts.
Materials—Buttermilk, two cups; sugar, one cup; soda, one teaspoon; baking powder, four teaspoons; butter, two tablespoons; nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoon; egg, six; salt, one-half teaspoon; bread flour.

Directions—Sift all the dry ingredients with one cup of flour into a bowl. Beat the eggs very light without separating and add to the buttermilk and then the flour mixture. Add as much more flour as necessary to make a soft dough to roll. They are easier to handle if set aside covered in cold place for an hour or over night. Roll out and fry in deep vegetable fat, drain on soft paper.

Meantime, don't be afraid to use plenty of salt and water. Keep yourself clear inside and out. Eat plenty of fruits and vegetables and drink at least three pints of pure water every day. Exercise outdoors as much as you want to, but when you are in a perspiration be careful not to take cold, as that is apt to make a breaking out on your face. I hope you do not smoke, as that will make you have a muddy skin. A clean body, a clean mind and a good digestion ought to give you a clear skin.

(3) Not every night. You need to be storing up strength for your manhood.

(4) At least eight hours' sleep every night.

(5) It depends upon whether you live in city or country. To my mind, it ought to be enough for a boy of your age.

(6) You could not get as good board and room as you are getting at home for that amount of money.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I would like to work, but I cannot do anything but housework, would you advise me to try it in a small family? (2) How shall I go about finding a place?

(3) Is there anything else besides housework that I could do?
(4) About how much do you think I could earn doing housework?
(5) I am going to have a party. What is nice to serve?

GERALDINE.
(1) If you are a really good housekeeper, it might be a good thing to do.
(2) Watch the advertisements in the newspapers, make application to an employment agency, or perhaps you could find a place through your friends.

(3) I do not know your abilities, my dear. You might get into a store or factory, but you would not be able to save as much money as if you did housework.
(4) Prices differ in various localities. Inquire among your neighbors.
(5) Different kinds of sandwiches—make them very dainty. Small pickles, fruit, cake, a fruit punch or lemonade or elder or hot coffee.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) A man I met this summer seems to wish to speak to me, but he never does and he has told a boy I know that he wishes to speak to me? I like him also. I do not really care for a boy friend, but I would rather have him speak than tell other people that he wishes to speak to me.

(2) Should a girl of fifteen go to dances given by her friends?
CHRISTINA.
(1) When you see him why not smile at him and say "How do you do?" That would be perfectly proper, if he has already been introduced to you. You don't need to have him for your only boy friend, but it would probably be nice to have him as one of your boy friends.

(2) Yes, if her parents know all about them, and are willing that she should go. But no girl should stay away from home late at night, my dear, even at a dance given by her friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you think there is any harm in a girl kissing a boy that she is engaged to marry? I am twenty years old.
BILLY EYES.
I certainly do not. Kiss him all you like, "Blue Eyes," but not so much that he'll tire of kissing. Don't be sloppy.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

LISTEN well—but not to idle whispers; Not to slanderous words that bear a sting; Listen well, that only truthful utterance may give to every little thing, alone and clear, and then retain it; Pass the evil, let the wrong go by; Cherish only thoughts that make thee better; Keep the truths that nevermore shall die.

SOME WAYS WITH FISH.

The pleasing theory that fish is a brain food has been abandoned, yet it still claims the merit of making lighter demands upon the digestion than meat, and we will therefore rejoice in the plentiful supply in most places where there are lakes and streams.

Every housekeeper desires to seek variety in the fish she offers her household. If the fish itself cannot vary, the way of preparation must certainly.

Few people care for boiled fish, because it is so often poorly cooked. Fish should be sewed up in a piece of cheese cloth and then put into boiling water in which a little vinegar is added. Cook steadily, allowing ten minutes to the pound. Remove it from the cloth to a dripping pan, baste it with butter, then dredge with flour and bake in a hot oven until well browned, basting once or twice during the time. When done keep hot while boiling up the liquid in the pan, adding a little browned flour for color, a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet and Worcestershire sauce, with salt and pepper. The sauce or gravy served with a fish is as important as the fish itself in making an appetizing dish.

Creamed Scalloped Fish.—Boil an onion cut in pieces in a cupful of milk, for fifteen minutes. Take out the onion. Cook together a tablespoonful each of flour and butter and pour over the hot milk. Then add a cup of flaked cold fish, either boiled or baked. Put into small dishes and cover with crumbs well buttered, then bake until the crumbs are brown.

Creamed Codfish.—Every cook is supposed to know how to prepare creamed codfish, yet it is a dish that may be easily spoiled. A grating of cheese added or an egg or two hard-cooked and chopped fine, added to the white sauce. A sharp sour pickle chopped is liked by many, or a few olives chopped and sprinkled over the dish as it is ready to serve. All these changes help to encourage appetite and make a pleasant variety.

Fish may be curried, deviled, creamed, scalloped, fried, pan-fried, baked, broiled, as well as served in combination with other foods.

HONOR SYSTEM PROVING SUCCESS AT UNIVERSITY
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 25.—Advocates of the honor system, which has just been voted in effect by the students of the University of Wisconsin, are already rejoicing over early evidences of its success. A number of popular professors tried the plan. They quietly passed out the "honor books," explained the questions as usual, announced they had work elsewhere, and left the room to the students. One professor went so far as to hand back some corrected exercises which contained material that would have been of assistance in the examination, and neither by this or other temptations was the spirit of the new rule violated, according to reports.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
To keep the chimney free from soot, sprinkle a little saltpeter over the fire occasionally.
To sweeten rancid butter melt the butter, skim it, then place a piece of light-brown toast in it, and in a few minutes the toast will have absorbed the unpleasant taste and smell.
A pretty garnish for roast duck are slices of naval oranges topped with currant jelly.
To clean plaster busts dips them into cold liquid starch. When dry the starch is brushed off and the dust comes off with it, leaving the bust as clean and white as when new.

THE TABLE.
Fish Ball—One cup of salt cod fish, two heaping cups of potatoes, one egg, one-half tablespoonful of butter, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper. Wash the fish in cold water and pick in very small pieces, or cut using scissors. Wash, pare and soak potatoes, cutting in pieces of uniform size before measuring. Cook the fish and potatoes are soft. Drain through a strainer, return to kettle and add salt, if necessary. Take up by spoonfuls, put in frying basket and fry one minute in deep fat, allowing six fish balls for each fryer; drain on brown paper. Reheat the fat after each frying.

Potato Stuffing.—Two cups of hot mashed potato, one and one-quarter cups of soft stale bread crumbs, one-quarter cup of finely chopped fat salt pork, one-half cup of sugar, one-third cup of butter, one egg, one and one-half teaspoonsful of salt, one teaspoonful of sage. Add to potato, bread crumbs, butter, egg, salt and sage, then add the pork and onion.
Lemon Jelly.—One-half box of gelatine or two tablespoonsful of granulated gelatine, one-half cup of cold water, two and one-half cups of boiling water, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of lemon juice. Soak the gelatine twenty minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, strain, and add to sugar and lemon juice. Turn into mould and chill.

Nut Cakes.—Meat from one pound of peacocks, one pound of powdered sugar, one-quarter cup of flour, whites of six eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Pound the nut meats and mix with the sugar and flour. Beat whites of eggs until stiff, add first mixture and vanilla. Drop from tip of tablespoon (allowing one spoonful for each cake) on a tin sheet covered with buttered paper. Bake twenty minutes in moderate oven.

Asparagus Salad.—Drain and rinse the stalks of canned asparagus. Cut rings from a bright red pepper one-third inch wide. Place three or four stalks in each ring. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing, to which has been added one-half tablespoonful of tomato catsup.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Income is to be the subject dealt with today. Yes, again.
What is your husband's income, and what per cent of it is reserved for an amusement fund? Probably this question causes you amusement? And yet this is a fact that we Americans as a race are too busy for amusement; that we never have the time to play. Visiting our larger cities, viewing the gay life that is to be seen there, we are rather apt to doubt this statement, still it is true for there are so many little towns and villages dotted all over this land of ours, not to mention our country population, whose sole aim in life seems to be to work. Work unceasingly.

To be able and willing to work is indeed a blessing, like all really good things it can be overdone. To be able to strike the happy medium is what we should strive for.

The families of this country whose head—the father—is a salaried man will be wisely investing their time and money if they make it a point to have an amusement fund. Money that can be used for the collective good of the family.

If your husband is drawing steady salary can you not put a certain sum aside each week, or pay day, to be his used?

It is not to our credit as a city to be able to say that there is many a man right in this town who goes to town every pay day and proceeds to celebrate as if it were the Fourth of July. The young single men haven't

A SPRING IN SHADE BRACKET

Simplifies the Hanging of the Curtain On the Spring Roller.

The operation of hanging a window shade is an easy one except for the fact that it requires some nice measuring to get the brackets at just the right distance so that the shade will run easily and yet not slip out of the slots designed to receive the ends of the roller.

The spring bracket shown hereafter makes this careful measuring unnecessary, for a margin of several inches is allowed by the action of the spring. As a matter of fact it would be possible to hang a shade without the use of a rule, as one could gauge the distance with the unaided eye.

The spring bracket has two other advantages: first, it is possible to put two shades in it where it is desired to have those of different colors; and second, it prevents the rattling of the wood work by repeated nailings of the brackets where they have been dislodged by hard usage.

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Nervousness Caused by Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It." St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'"

"I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs. BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S., St. Cloud, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon as the most efficient remedy for female ills. Why don't you try it?

How to Make the Best Cough Remedy at Home

A Family Supply at Small Cost, and Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and 2 pint of water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two, or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold at once, and will usually conquer an ordinary cold in 24 hours. It tones up the failed appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also, excellent for bronchial trouble, tracheal asthma, whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

This method of making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is now used in more homes than any other cough syrup. This explains why it is often imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacal and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination. A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE MARSHAL

By MARY RAYMOND SHIPMAN ANDREWS

The Perfect Tribute
The Better Treasure, Etc.

Battista spoke low, glancing at the bid, Signor, he whispered, "that I heavy iron door of the cell. 'God for should speak, here in his own castle, the name of my young master.'"

"There was a long silence. The prisoner and his jailer gazed at each other as if saying things beyond words. Then the boy put out his long thin fingers and caught the man's sleeve."

"Battista," he murmured, "Battista—is that true? Is it possible? Do you know—my Pietro?"

"Know him, Signor?" Battista's deep voice was unsteady. "My fathers have known him for eight hundred years." The man was shaking with a loyal long pent up, but Francois lifted his head, leaned on his elbow, and looked at him thoughtfully.

"But, Battista, I know you now; he has spoken to me of you. It was your son, the little Battista, who was his body-servant when they were children?"

"Yes, Signor."

"I can dream of it; I never knew what castle this was; I never dreamed of Castelforte; you would not tell me."

"I could not, Signor. It was forbidden. It is forbidden. I am risking my life every minute."

"Go, Battista," and Francois pushed him away with weak hands. "Go quickly—you have been here too long. There might be suspicion. I could not live if I brought trouble to my masters; one had been care for and contented always; one was terrorized and ground down by these 'Austrian swine' the memory of the old masters, the personality of any one connected with them, was sacred. Battista bowed his head over the hands in his own, then he stood up."

"I shall be back at bedtime, Signor," he said quietly, and was gone.

But Francois had an ally now, and he knew it. The excitement of the thought, the joy of dim possible results beyond his high-strung temperance, like a tonic, he must be, he would be careful beyond work, guard against any danger, any suspicion for Battista, but—There were chances even with that provision.

Here was hope, and he was a prisoner, to have been five years a prisoner in a cell in an unknown castle in a foreign land to know what the first glimpse of hope may mean.

Instantly, with the hope working in him, he began to get well. In the little, watching fearfully against the peril of conversations long enough to seem suspicious to eyes always alert, he told Battista of the close friendship of the chateau in France, of the splendid old officer of Napoleon, and of his daughter, the beautiful demoiselle, who was Alix; of the years at school together, the boyish adventures, innumerable. Every word Battista drank in; he had not seen the young man since he had left Castelforte with his father on the journey which took them to Vicques. When, at the end of his recollections, the boy of eighteen had come back to his country, the castle had already been seized by the Austrians, and it had not been safe for Pietro to come into his own country. But the man's memory of his little lord was vivid and loving; he listened eagerly to the least detail of his unknown older life. And the day the prisoner who could tell him such things, who was the friend of his master, became more of an idol to him, stood to him more and more in the place of the marquis. From the beginning of the imprisonment he had had an affection for this young stranger, a few people ever came under the influence of Francois without having an affection for him; but the day of his mention of Pietro had made Battista his slave.

A person of more importance than Battista had fallen under the spell of Francois personality. The governor himself had been attracted by the young Frenchman. The governor, Count von Gersdorf, was a vain, discontented, brilliant Austrian, at odds with the world because he had not risen further in it. He was without society in this mountain fortress of his, and longed for it; he had a fine voice and no one to sing to; he liked to talk and had no one to talk to. Francois, with his ready friendliness, with his gift of finding good in every one, with his winning, naive simplicity which had the ease of sophistication, was a treasure-trove of amusement to the bored Austrian. Moreover, Francois could play a guitar and accompany his songs, and knew enough music to accompany the governor's really beautiful voice; his delight in it was better than the most finished flattery. He had taught the governor French songs; they sang together, and the count roared them out and then roared with laughter, and Francois smiled and was pleased. It had come to be a custom with the governor, during the last two years, to have the Frenchman brought down very often to his room for dinner, and to spend the evening. All this was against regulations—but who was to know? The count was lord of life and death at Castelforte, and if higher powers came once in a year or two, no one would dare speak of the doings of the governor except the governor.

Things stood so with the prisoner at the time of his discovery of the identity of his jailer and of his jail. The governor at that time was away on a visit to Vienna, looking for a promotion; he could not be troubled and sood the man in the prospect of change within the year. But the heart of Francois sank as he thought what the change might mean to him. This man had treated him with unhelped favor in some ways, he realized what it meant to reason and health to have those evenings away from his narrow cold cell, even in such company as the governor's. Besides which Francois persistently found good qualities in the governor. He had been allowed books to read in his cell, though no writing materials. Strange as it may seem, it had been in some ways a happy life. The Austrian thought of the bent of his thought before unknown had opened out to him in the long solitary days. When he awoke in the morning he let himself be floated out on a tide of meditation, where strange bright visions met him like islands in a vast, calm sea. He looked forward to these thoughts as to events, as a mystic of India looks to Nirvana.

In the light of this happiness of prison, the hardships which he had borne in his health from dampness and lack of air and poor food were small discomforts, hardly to be noticed in the greatness of his blessings. These trials would be over shortly; the real things, the things he could not see, were eternal. Moreover, it was action he dreamed, not quiescence, as he looked from the barred window at the vast blue depths of the Italian sky, deeper and more transparent than elsewhere. His belief in his star, in his fusion some day to come into the larger star of the Bonapartes, had been strengthened.

With that he slipped to his knees and lifted the feverish hands to his lips. "The friend of my young master," he said simply, but his voice broke on the words. The traditional faithfulness of centuries was strong in Battista; the Zappis had been good masters; one had been care for and contented always; one was terrorized and ground down by these "Austrian swine" the memory of the old masters, the personality of any one connected with them, was sacred. Battista bowed his head over the hands in his own, then he stood up."

All this was against regulations—but who was to know? The count was lord of life and death at Castelforte, and if higher powers came once in a year or two, no one would dare speak of the doings of the governor except the governor.

Things stood so with the prisoner at the time of his discovery of the identity of his jailer and of his jail. The governor at that time was away on a visit to Vienna, looking for a promotion; he could not be troubled and sood the man in the prospect of change within the year. But the heart of Francois sank as he thought what the change might mean to him. This man had treated him with unhelped favor in some ways, he realized what it meant to reason and health to have those evenings away from his narrow cold cell, even in such company as the governor's. Besides which Francois persistently found good qualities in the governor. He had been allowed books to read in his cell, though no writing materials. Strange as it may seem, it had been in some ways a happy life. The Austrian thought of the bent of his thought before unknown had opened out to him in the long solitary days. When he awoke in the morning he let himself be floated out on a tide of meditation, where strange bright visions met him like islands in a vast, calm sea. He looked forward to these thoughts as to events, as a mystic of India looks to Nirvana.

In the light of this happiness of prison, the hardships which he had borne in his health from dampness and lack of air and poor food were small discomforts, hardly to be noticed in the greatness of his blessings. These trials would be over shortly; the real things, the things he could not see, were eternal. Moreover, it was action he dreamed, not quiescence, as he looked from the barred window at the vast blue depths of the Italian sky, deeper and more transparent than elsewhere. His belief in his star, in his fusion some day to come into the larger star of the Bonapartes, had been strengthened.

With that he slipped to his knees and lifted the feverish hands to his lips. "The friend of my young master," he said simply, but his voice broke on the words. The traditional faithfulness of centuries was strong in Battista; the Zappis had been good masters; one had been care for and contented always; one was terrorized and ground down by these "Austrian swine" the memory of the old masters, the personality of any one connected with them, was sacred. Battista bowed his head over the hands in his own, then he stood up."

"I shall be back at bedtime, Signor," he said quietly, and was gone.

But Francois had an ally now, and he knew it. The excitement of the thought, the joy of dim possible results beyond his high-strung temperance, like a tonic, he must be, he would be careful beyond work, guard against any danger, any suspicion for Battista, but—There were chances even with that provision.

Instantly, with the hope working in him, he began to get well. In the little, watching fearfully against the peril of conversations long enough to seem suspicious to eyes always alert, he told Battista of the close friendship of the chateau in France, of the splendid old officer of Napoleon, and of his daughter, the beautiful demoiselle, who was Alix; of the years at school together, the boyish adventures, innumerable. Every word Battista drank in; he had not seen the young man since he had left Castelforte with his father on the journey which took them to Vicques. When, at the end of his recollections, the boy of eighteen had come back to his country, the castle had already been seized by the Austrians, and it had not been safe for Pietro to come into his own country. But the man's memory of his little lord was vivid and loving; he listened eagerly to the least detail of his unknown older life. And the day the prisoner who could tell him such things, who was the friend of his master, became more of an idol to him, stood to him more and more in the place of the marquis. From the beginning of the imprisonment he had had an affection for this young stranger, a few people ever came under the influence of Francois without having an affection for him; but the day of his mention of Pietro had made Battista his slave.

A person of more importance than Battista had fallen under the spell of Francois personality. The governor himself had been attracted by the young Frenchman. The governor, Count von Gersdorf, was a vain, discontented, brilliant Austrian, at odds with the world because he had not risen further in it. He was without society in this mountain fortress of his, and longed for it; he had a fine voice and no one to sing to; he liked to talk and had no one to talk to. Francois, with his ready friendliness, with his gift of finding good in every one, with his winning, naive simplicity which had the ease of sophistication, was a treasure-trove of amusement to the bored Austrian. Moreover, Francois could play a guitar and accompany his songs, and knew enough music to accompany the governor's really beautiful voice; his delight in it was better than the most finished flattery. He had taught the governor French songs; they sang together, and the count roared them out and then roared with laughter, and Francois smiled and was pleased. It had come to be a custom with the governor, during the last two years, to have the Frenchman brought down very often to his room for dinner, and to spend the evening. All this was against regulations—but who was to know? The count was lord of life and death at Castelforte, and if higher powers came once in a year or two, no one would dare speak of the doings of the governor except the governor.

Things stood so with the prisoner at the time of his discovery of the identity of his jailer and of his jail. His belief in his star, in his fusion some day to come into the larger star of the Bonapartes, had been strengthened.

How his heart ached, madly, fiercely! This was the worst moment of all his captivity. And with that, Battista was over him, was murmuring words again. "Something was slipped under the bedclothes."

"Paper—pens. The Signor will write a letter this afternoon. And tomorrow little Battista will take it." And the heart of Francois gave a sudden throb of joy as wild as its anguish. He could speak to them before he died; it might be they could save him. His hands stole to the package under the coarse blanket. It seemed as if touching it he touched his mother and his sweetheart and his home.

CHAPTER XIX.
Good News.

IN the garden of the chateau of Vicques, where the stiff, gray stone vases spilled again their heart's blood of scarlet and etching of vines; where the two stately trees had led down to the sundial and the round lawn—on one of the griffin-supported stone seats Alix and Pietro sat, where Alix and Francois had sat five years before.

Alix, again in her dark riding-habit, with the blue feather in her hat and the gauntleted hands, was grown from an exquisite slip of a girl into a woman more lovely than the girl. Her eyes when she lifted the long, exaggerated, curled lashes, held fire and force, and knowledge of suffering, it might be, under their steady smile, but held all these in control. This was a woman able not only to endure things, which is the gift to most women, but to do things. Pietro, his big arm stretched along the back of the stone seat, watched her—as Pietro had watched her always. It seemed almost as if he were looking at his honest eyes fixed calmly on her face. Pietro, whose illness at Ancona had put Francois, into his place in the escape of Louis Napoleon, had put Francois in his place as the prisoner of Austria, now these five years.

Pietro had managed to get away from Italy and had joined Queen Hortense and her son before they entered Paris. Both the prince and Pietro had moved heaven and earth to find the fate of Francois. That he had been taken by the Austrian squad at the end of his wild ride they knew. More than this they could not discover, except that he was still alive.

It was not until the day when he pointed to the conclusion that he had been immediately executed. The Prince believed this, and Pietro came to believe it. But Alix had never believed it.

In these five years Pietro had not been back to Italy; the inevitable Austrian had put down in 1831 the revolution in the Romagna, the rising in which Louis and Pietro, the Prince and Zappis, had taken part. In the war-torn country no movements of any importance had taken place since that. Pietro, a Carbonaro, a member of the secret society, which was not safe inside the Italian frontier. With other patriots he awaited in a foreign country the day when he might go back to fight again for a united Italy. In the meantime he conspired, planned, worked continually for the patriots, and as he continually he tried, though now without hope, to find a trace of Francois.

The boy who had dashed through the Austrian soldiers on that morning at Chiasso, and leaped to the landlord's horse and cleared his way through with the play of the old soldier, the boy who had taken part in the face of the earth, Pietro, grieving deeply for his old friend, grieving bitterly because it was in filling his place that Francois had met his fate, he moved him dead. But Alix did not believe it. Pietro was often wrong, but Alix was never so.

Alix followed the glance considerably, as if calling up the little, brown, trading figure so well remembered. Then she tossed up her head sharply. "Who?" and then she laughed. "I shall be seeing visions, next, like Francois," she said. "I thought it was he—back in the beech wood."

"I see no one," Pietro stared. "But you have no eyes, Pietro—I can always see a thing two minutes before you." Alix threw at him. "There—the man."

"Oh," said Pietro. "Your eyes are more than natural, Alix. You see into a wood; that is uncanny. Yes, I see him now. Mon Dieu! he is a big fellow."

"A peasant—from some other village," Alix spoke carelessly. "I do not know him, and they went on talking as they had been doing, of Francois."

And with that, here was Jean Philipe Moisson, forty now and fat, but still beautiful in purple millinery, advancing down the stone steps between the tall gray vases, making a symphony of color with the rich red of the flowers. He held a silver tray; a letter was on it.

"For Mademoiselle."

shriveled up, and it's gone! Ever try anything like that? You never did. There's no more fussing with plaster that press on the corn, no more salves that take out the surrounding flesh, no more cutting. No more knives, files, or razors that make corns grow, and cause danger of blood poisoning. "GETS-IT" is equally harmless to healthy or irritated flesh. It gets every corn, wart, callus and bunion you've got. "GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or send a receipt of price by E. Lawrence Co., Chicago.

Dinner Stories

Two Irish farmers who had not seen each other for a long time met at a fair. They had a lot of things to tell each other.

"Shure, it's married Oi am," said Murphy.

"You don't tell me so," said Moran.

"Fa' yes," said Murphy, "and Oi've got a fine healthy boy, which the
